

BAKER MISSOURI DAY SPEAKER AT THE EXPOSITION

Governor Stresses Education as One of Factors Multiplying Resources of Any Community.

ACCOMPANIED BY HONORARY COLONELS

Flower Parade Under Auspices of the Women's Exposition Committee to Be Held Tomorrow.

Gov. Baker, analyzing the greatness of a city, at the Greater St. Louis Exposition in Forest Park this afternoon, stressed education as multiplying the resources of any community. His address was the feature of "Missouri day" at the Exposition, and the Governor and his staff of honorary Colonels were guests.

"We speak of the wealth of a community and frequently gauge its strength by its wealth," said the Governor. "There are three factors to be considered in the wealth of a community—its natural resources, its physical resources and education. Natural and physical resources are fixed. Education is not. Education multiplies the resources of a community ten-fold. It is safe to estimate that the wealth of any community is due entirely to education. Education costs money, but it is worth every penny."

"Another thing that I would have you in St. Louis consider," the Governor continued, "is that industrial development is linked up with agricultural development. The farmer should not be neglected in schemes of community building. Any city that genuinely desires to be known as a progressive city should occasionally make surveys of its trade territory, the agricultural country surrounding it."

Advice As to Country.
"Invite the people of the country to come in and use your libraries and make use of the other varied educational facilities you have. Encourage them to become interested in the amusements of the city. Make them feel that they have a real interest in the development and progress of the city where they do their trading. Do this if you want to grow."

"These principles I have mentioned for the growth of a city apply as well to the State of Missouri. I believe that we are approaching a new era in the development of our State. Our progress in road building and general advertising is causing people over the nation to take a new interest in Missouri."

The Governor closed with an appeal for greater interest on the part of business men in politics. He declared that business should bring waste and economy to supplant the waste in government.

The Governor was guest at breakfast in Hotel Chase of the Chamber of Commerce, the honorary colonels, members of the Board of Police Commissioners and of a reception committee, headed by Edward H. Haden, attending. He visited the Exposition last night unofficially witnessing the "Exposition Frivolities" and sham battle.

Flower Parade Tomorrow.
The publicity department of the Exposition announced yesterday that the flower parade under the auspices of the Women's Exposition Committee would be today. This was an error. The parade will be held tomorrow, beginning at 1 p. m. at Twelfth and Locust streets. It is announced that 35 decorated floats will be in line. The parade will go west on Locust to Lindell to Kingshighway and thence through Forest Park to the Exposition. Cash prizes are to be awarded. George T. Moore, director of the Missouri Botanical Garden; Loula Le Beaume, architect, and Miss Antoinette Taylor will judge the open class. Judges of the women's organization entries will be Mrs. H. J. Patingill, Mrs. Emily Grant Hutchings and Carolyn Rique.

The parade will be led by the Cosack band. Girl Reserves in costume and members of the Women's Exposition Committee will follow.

The Air Service Exhibit.
The Air Service exhibit, occupying 10 booths, continues to be one of the most popular in the show, particularly the messenger airplane—a pony plane, the smallest in service, used in connection with dirigible scouting. The utility of the messenger plane first was demonstrated at Scott Field about two years ago. There, for the first time an airplane was attached to a dirigible while both were in flight; and the airplane afterward discharged in flight from the dirigible. From these tests the messenger plane became a part of the equipment of every dirigible. The theory of its use is carrying back scouting information gathered by the dirigible.

An addition to the exhibit since its opening is a 12-foot exact model of the Shenandoah, which fell on its way to St. Louis last autumn. The bombs also hold the interest of the throngs. Each type and size of bomb used for destructive warfare from airplanes is in the exhibit, up to 2000-pounders capable of destroying a man-of-war with a single hit. The method of carrying the bombs in a rack is shown, the method and instructions used by the bomber in sighting his mark and the method of discharging the bomb at the mark.

In Charge of Flying Ace.
The exhibit is in charge of Lieut. James A. Healy, flying ace during the war. He was credited officially with the destruction of five German planes and unofficially with 15. For his service he wears ribbons of the French Legion of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross and the French Croix de Guerre with two palms indicating two citations in French general orders. Of 71 American flying aces at the end of the war, only three remain in service.

The exhibit was assembled at McCook Field, Dayton, by S. G. Somers of the technical division of the Air Service.

GERMANY IN LEAGUE; PACT OF LOCARNO OPERATIVE

is expected to arrive in Geneva tomorrow night, to take part in Friday's session.

Conference on Imports.

The Council of the League has decided to convene an international conference of representatives of governments to elaborate an agreement for the abolition of import and export prohibitions and restrictions. Members of the Council express the belief that such an economic recovery of Europe.

Statements by the Ministers of all the Balkan countries yesterday gave the impression that the political situation is so improved in the Balkans that a general Balkan pact may be expected soon. The occasion for this manifestation was the adoption by the Council of a detailed project for the settlement of 120,000 Bulgarian refugees, who have been obliged to leave their native countries, involving the flotation of a loan of $12,000,000.

The Bulgarian Minister of Finance told the Council that the refugee plan had proved of the greatest importance in the pacification of the Balkans. M. Vardoliev of Belgium characterized the project "as one of the fairest flowers in the crown of the League of Nations."

Spain Decides to Withdraw.
Advices from the Franco-Spanish border saying Spain had resigned from the League caused a stir here today.

Spain had threatened to resign if her demand for a permanent seat in the League Council was refused.

A dispatch telling of the resignation came on the eve of the session called for the election of Germany as a member of the League. The dispatch said that King Alfonso had attended the Cabinet council at which it was decided that Spain would withdraw and that the resignation was written by Gen. Primo de Rivera, the Premier, in collaboration with Foreign Minister Yanguas.

The document was said to reproach the League for lack of consideration shown to Spain as the mother country of 20 nations speaking her language. Spain and Brazil are the only two countries which have withdrawn from the League. Brazil resigned last March because she wanted a permanent seat on the Council.

Under the covenant of the League resignations do not become effective until two years after they are presented, but presumably Spain and Brazil will refrain from participating in future proceedings of the League. Argentina, although still a member of the League, is taking no active part in its councils.

Action of Assembly Makes Locarno Pact Effective.

Election of Germany to league membership automatically brings into force the treaty of mutual guarantees initiated at Locarno in October by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany.

The Locarno treaty binds the contracting parties to the territorial status quo as regards the frontiers between Germany and Belgium and between Germany and France as fixed by the Versailles peace treaty.

It also stipulates that disputes between these countries which it may not be possible to settle by normal methods of diplomacy, shall be submitted to judicial decision or to a conciliation commission. Failure of the latter to settle the questions would bring them before the Council of the League.

Arbitration conventions were also signed between Germany and Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Germany goes into the League with the understanding that her disarmed condition under the Versailles treaty shall be taken with consideration in interpreting her obligations under Article 16 of the League covenant, which obligates League members to common action against an aggressor state. This assurance was given to Germany in

WIFE OBTAINS DIVORCE FROM CLAUDE L. MATTHEWS

Daughter of Late Thomas K. Skinner, Capitalist, Also Granted Custody of Their Three Children.

Mrs. Jane Skinner Matthews of 4660 Pershing avenue was granted a divorce today from Claude L. Matthews, vice president of the W. N. Matthews Corporation, an electrical concern at 3722 Forest Park boulevard. She is a daughter of the late Thomas K. Skinner, capitalist.

There was no contest and attorneys indicated that a financial settlement had been made out of court. Mrs. Matthews charged general indignities, alleging her husband had a violent temper, used abusive language to her and sought to alienate the affections of their three children. They married in 1906 and separated last April, she said.

Mrs. Matthews was given custody of the children, Rives, 19 years old, now in Europe; Jane, 18, who is with her mother, and Claudia, 16, now at a girl's school in Versailles, Ky. Matthews' address was given as the St. Louis Country Club.

though not an officer of this bank took some of its original records and personally burned them up." Buckner mentioned repeatedly the names of King and Clemington, and the late Jesse W. Smith, who committed suicide in 1923.

King and Smith, Buckner charged, "pulled the strings" in bringing about the transfer of the $7,000,000 received from the sale of American Metals Co. securities.

To Offer Government Records.

"We will show by Government records of hotel, travel and other expense accounts," said Buckner, "that Miller, Smith, Daugherty, John T. King and Merton met in New York City on April 19, 1921, and that Miller, Smith and Daugherty came here for the purpose of meeting Merton."

It was as a result of this conference, the Government contends, that the bribes were given the public officials.

This, the prosecutor said, was after Merton had come to this country to find some one with approval of the claim to the $7,000,000. John T. King was the man he finally chose, and the conference of the five men consequently was arranged, Buckner asserted.

During his outline of the case, Buckner declared that when Merton later visited Daugherty in Washington take up the case, personally, the German metal magnate did not have with him a "single document or scrap of paper as a basis for the $7,000,000 claim."

Coaching German Claimant.

"The Government will show," said Buckner, "that Smith met Merton. Merton will testify that he was told that it would be a good thing to meet Col. Miller and that he, Jesse Smith and John T. King went to the Hotel McAlpin, where Smith introduced him to Miller and told him to go to Washington to see him."

"Within the next week Merton made the trip to Washington and Jesse Smith took him to Miller's office. Miller sent for his chief assistant, R. E. Williams, a man whom he had promoted to a job that paid a larger salary than his own. The Government fixes 'this date on or about April 26, 1921. Merton did not have with him a single document or scrap of paper as a basis for the $7,000,000 claim. Williams told him the procedure to be followed and dictated and had written out the substantial things to be done in order to get the claim approved by Miller and Daugherty and get his $7,000,000."

"Merton will testify that he returned to Europe to prepare the company's claim in accordance with instructions. "On April 30, four days after Williams had spent several hours telling Merton what to do in order to put his claim through, John R. Sullivan, of the firm of Sullivan & Cromwell, went to see Williams in behalf of Merton, who was his client."

"The lawyer did not mention any names, but he gave the amount of the claim and other information which made it clear that it was the Merton claim. Williams never told him that Merton had been there, but on the contrary informed him that the department would never hink of paying such a claim involving $7,000,000, and based on a pure oral conversation, except by court order."

"The Government will ask you to infer that the defendant, Miller, acting through his assistant, William, withheld information from this attorney because he wanted to eliminate any possible eye witnesses to the entire transaction."

$50,000 and 5 Per Cent of Claim.

The prosecutor charged that, through King, it was arranged that the alleged conspirators should receive $50,000 by check and five per cent of whatever part of the $7,000,000 was returned to the foreign owners.

"We will show," he said, "by Merton's testimony, that he came back to this country on July 23 with his papers all prepared, and that Smith came to New York to meet him. Either Smith or King then took the papers to Washington. Smith told Merton the value of the claim and that it was to be paid out right and Aug. 9 Smith returned to Washington and on the evening of the same day we find Merton there at the Hotel Shoreham. The next day Williams and Merton conferred."

"The Government will show that Williams told him to make some additions and to take out some of the papers which made reference to debt. Then we find Jesse Smith taking Merton over to the Department of Justice, where he had an office of his own and the entire run of the department. He took him to the office of Guy D. Goff, now United States Senator from West Virginia, but at that time Daugherty's first assistant. He introduced Merton to Goff and told Goff he was a neutral making a claim to the office of the Alien Property Custodian."

No Questions Asked.

"Goff then sent for Adna R. Johnson, a young man from Ohio, whom Daugherty had put in complete control of all matters relating to alien property. We will show you in Harry Daugherty's own handwriting, the authorization to this young man of 26 to handle these matters."

There was no discussion. No questions were asked. Goff said that his office wanted to be fair in all questions and to all persons having claims. This was the only time Merton was ever in the office of the Department of Justice. He left there, returned to New York and went back to Europe to make the necessary changes in his papers."

Check Lost, Records Remain.

"Merton paid him the $50,000. This check has either been lost or destroyed. But we will show that Merton's account in the Chase Bank was debited with $50,000 on one day and that King's account at the Guaranty Trust Co. was credited with $50,000 the next morning. In the absence of the checks, after five years, we think this will be satisfactory evidence of the transaction."

"On Sept. 18 Merton came back to this country with his papers again. The next night he was at the Shoreham in Washington. The following day Jesse Smith took the papers to Miller's office and filed the claim on behalf of the Societe Suesse Pour Valeurs de Metaux, although the National City Bank appeared on the papers themselves as handling the claim."

"Smith told Merton to stay at the Shoreham so that he might be available to answer questions regarding the claim. On Sept. 27, Senator's Condition Reported Improved at Martinsville, Ind.

By the Associated Press.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 8.—The condition of Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, who changed this morning, is reported comfortable night, according to attending physician, Dr. Robert Egbert. A slight improvement is noted in his condition.

dictment charges that property of two German companies was seized during the war and that Daugherty and Miller conspired to return the United States in return for the value of this property to Jesse W. Merton, acting as agent for the Swiss company.

In a list of six overt acts mentioned in the indictment, it is alleged that John T. King, Republican national commissioner from Connecticut, who died after his indictment last May, introduced Merton to Jesse W. Merton, former aid to Daugherty, who mentioned in previous indictments that he committed suicide in 1921. It is alleged that Merton introduced Merton to Miller and took Merton's check for $50,000.

In September, 1921, it is alleged, Miller, then Alien Property Custodian, signed two letters recommending to Daugherty, then Attorney-General, the claims made Merton as agent for the Swiss company.

"Oral Transfer" Claimed.

Merton, it is alleged, had represented that the property of German companies had been transferred to the Swiss company before the war.

It is alleged that Miller Daugherty made no attempt to verify the "obvious nonsense" Merton's claims but that "acted by hope and promise of reward presented and recommended."

It is then alleged that Miller Merton $6,453,979.97 in two checks (the value of the American property returned by Miller, Allen Property Custodian) that Oct. 1, 1921, King signed from Merton Liberty bonds of par value of $391,000, which prosecution asserts was a bribe in addition to $50,000 paid to check to King—for assistance in putting the property into the hands of the Merton.

The Government will attempt to show that this $441,000 was paid among the alleged conspirators.

Details of the Charges.

Daugherty and Miller are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government of its functions and rights, and of honest, impartial, unbiased and unprejudiced service and judgment, in return of approximately $7,000,000 in assets and bonds to the Societe Suesse Pour Valeurs de Metaux. The indictment is returned by Miller, Allen Property Custodian.

MAN SHOT 6 TIMES IN FACE AND HEAD

Telephone Call Summons
Capt. Frank Nally and Carr Street Officers to the Scene.

Investigation of the murder of Onorio Albanese, card-playing fruit merchant, who was shot to death at 4 p. m. yesterday in a poolroom at 1425 North Fourteenth street, is being made by police on the theory that he was slain in a gambling quarrel and not in the downtown Italian bootleg feud.

The latter possibility is not being overlooked entirely, however, because of the fact that Albanese was shot six times in the face and head—unusually vicious circumstances to have resulted from a card game quarrel, but typical of the method of the bootleg feudists. Albanese commonly known as Louie, who sold fruit at Soular's Market from the tail gate of a truck lately owned by himself and John Monti, his brother-in-law was killed after the day's work ended and he had gone to the poolroom for a game of cards.

Police Called to Scene.
His body was found by Capt. Frank Nally and other policemen of the Carr Street district who responded to a telephone call that a man had been killed at the Fourteenth street address.

When police arrived everybody had fled. The body lay partly on the floor, partly on a chair. Apparently the body had been shot before he had a chance to rise from his seat.

On the floor beside the table was evidence that a card game in progress had been suddenly interrupted. Cards were strewn on the floor about the body and one of the killer had hurled the deck at his erstwhile opponent. A 25-cent piece and two half-empty cigarette packs also lay nearby.

Relative of Albanese, who lived at 1416 1/2 North Nineteenth street, told detectives that his insatiable passion for card playing usually gambled during the afternoon at the poolroom. There had been many quarrels among the players, police were told, and once Albanese had been warned that he would be killed because there had been some cheating in the game, either by him or someone else.

Monti, who had left Albanese at 130 p. m. after they had sold out their stock at the market, identified the body at the morgue. Albanese had been shot twice over the right eye, and once each in the forehead, right temple, mouth and chin.

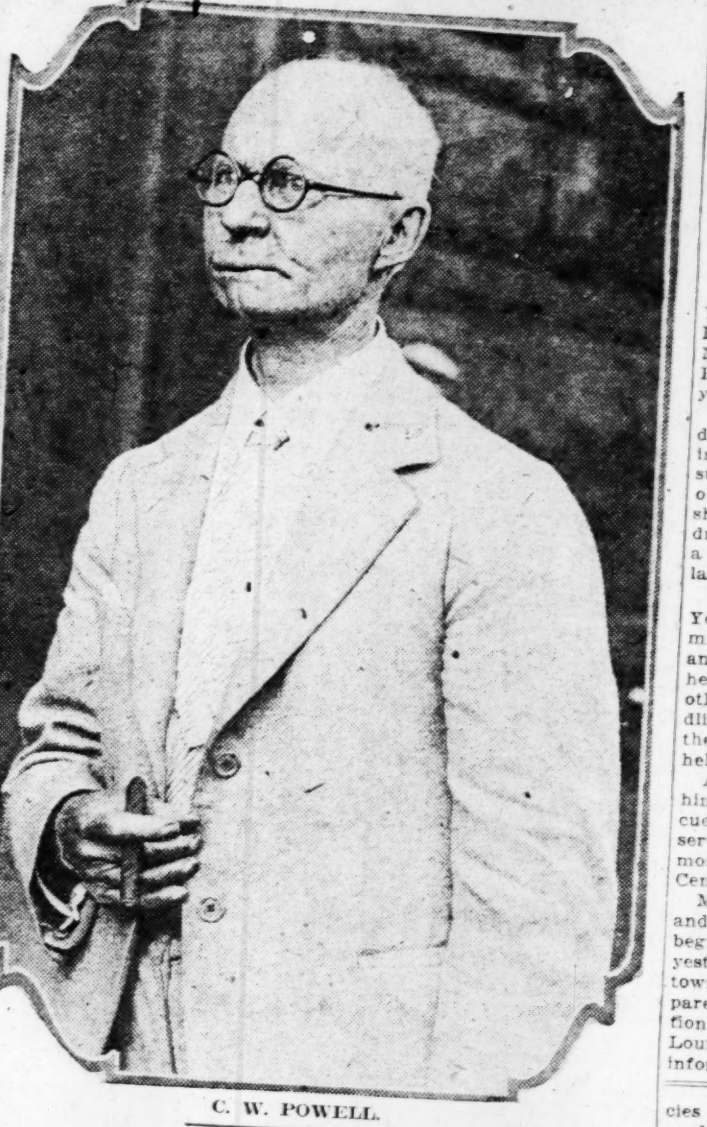

His widow, Mary, and two children, John, 9, and Philip, 7, survive him.
$100 in Cash in Pockets.
Included in the property found in his pockets after the shooting yesterday was $106 in cash, which will be turned over to his family after the inquest.

Four suspects in the shooting were arrested yesterday but three were released. The fourth has said he knows nothing of the killing.
Last night at 8 o'clock, Detective Shelton and Williams, investigating previous Italian shootings, arrested two men at Twelfth and Chestnut streets after finding two loaded revolvers on the seat of their automobile. The men said they were Sam Tocco of 1423 1/2 North Seventh street and Benjamin Grumano of 1006 North Seventh street. Both were held pending application for warrants charging them with carrying concealed weapons.

MILK DEALERS TO INCREASE PRICE ONE CENT A QUART

Rise in Wholesale Rates Due to Expense of Testing, Producers
Say at Meeting.
An increase in the retail price of milk from 13 to 14 cents a quart is likely to be put in effect here as the result of the rise of wholesale milk prices voted yesterday by distributors of the St. Louis Pure Milk Producers Association.
The association comprising 5000 dairymen of Illinois and Missouri voted to ask an increase from 4 1/2 to 5 cents a quart for their product as delivered to the distributor. Because of an expected decrease in retail consumption under the new price it was stated the distributors sent a quart, taking the extra half cent profit to make up for the falling off in sales.
Dairymen at the meeting yesterday declared added cost of production due to the demand for tuberculin-tested milk, makes the increase in wholesale price imperative. Members of the association declared all milk should be tested for tuberculous germs before being sold, but asserted the tests could not be made at the old price.

Man Who Made Shaw's Garden Orchid Mecca of the World Here to View Collection

THE man who made the Shaw's Garden orchid collection the finest in the world by giving it the fruit of his 30 arduous years in the jungle—C. W. Powell of Balboa, Canal Zone—arrived in St. Louis last night.

About his brief, square figure dwelt a breath of adventure—adventure that in pursuit of a hobby made this employ of the Canal Zone Health Department famous among men of science the world over.

The current issue of the "Orchid Review" of London carries a three page article about Powell's gift to Shaw's Garden. Text-books of learned men have devoted many pages to his collection, and the Berlin Botanical Garden has published an entire volume about it.

Recently the Smithsonian Institution officially called him and his orchids, "something unique in tropical America, if not in the whole world."

Brothers in Science.

Visits to New York, Philadelphia and Washington which preceded his trip here, after his 20 years home-coming, have been a real home-coming. Everywhere he was greeted as an old friend by scientists and orchid enthusiasts. Although he met many then for the first time. These knew him through a decade of learned correspondence, and others had made pilgrimages to his famous garden, for it is a mecca of the orchid world.

George H. Pring, horticulturist at Union Station and took him to dinner. It was their first meeting since 1923, when Pring, returning from his orchid hunt in Colombia, spent three weeks at Powell's garden, talking orchids from 6 a. m. to 3 a. m. Last night they appeared to take up the conversation where they left off three years ago. They talked like old friends, the verbal dialogue like a verbal warfare at the Greater St. Louis Exposition. Abruptly Powell broke through the scientific barrage with a sentence that was all English—or all American.

St. Louis Movie in Panama.

"Say, Pring," he exclaimed, "I saw your chrysanthemum show in the movies."
"Where was that?" asked Pring, politely interested.
"In Panama. It was a fine show."
"What?" In Panama? Pring's interest was more than polite then. He was beaming.
A rare dove orchid, or holy ghost orchid, which Powell gave Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden when the gift of the Powell garden was made last spring, has just come into bloom as it is to greet the donor.

"And," Pring added, "those little white-flowering rarities, the Masdevallia Livingstoniana, are doing wonderfully."
"There's a historical value attached to that species," Powell remarked. "The very day that it first bloomed outside the jungle at St. Albans in England, was the day that the new of Livingston's death reached there. Now there is none left in England, or in any botanical garden anywhere except Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis, and—Missouri Botanical Garden, Panama."

Powell's Astonishing Work.
Powell's garden has thousands of orchid plants of about 500 species—more different species than in any other garden in the United States except the parent garden here. It was every bit the work of one man following, not his vocation, but a hobby to which he could devote only his holidays and spare time. How had he done it?

"Well," replied Powell, somewhat reluctant at being drawn from his abstruse discussion with Pring. "I always was interested in flowers. I had a little greenhouse at my home in New Orleans before I went to the Canal Zone. There, too, I wanted flowers. Naturally I wanted the best; naturally I wanted something I had never seen. The answer was orchids."

Powell's First Orchid.
"Surely I can remember my first orchid." A reminiscent fervor awoke in his wide-open, blue eyes, and his square shoulders, erect at 72, grew just a little more erect. "I was just looking over the country one Sunday, about 18 months after I got down there, when I saw it way up near the top of a tall tree."
"You're certainly a beauty," I said. "I must have you." While I was standing there wondering how on earth to climb that tree a barefooted Indian came along. "I'll give you 25 cents gold (United States money, as distinguished from the "silver" of Panama) to get that flower," I said.

"About 20 feet away was another tree from which hung a long vine. The Indian climbed that vine with his hands and toes until he reached a branch, and then went up through the boughs to another vine. He cut this one free below him and began swinging. At length he was able to catch a bough of the other tree, cut off the orchid, and swing back with it on the vine."
I would pull the orchids apart and study them, but I never kept the plants. I sent all over the civilized world for books on orchids. I couldn't read a French or German newspaper, but with a little Latin, could make out the technical words.

Canal Zone Garden.
"All this time I was in correspondence with botanical gardens, until I got the idea that the Canal Zone ought to have a garden. It started on my front porch. When that got so packed with the plants I couldn't move I started an annex by building a tier of shelves on the rear wall of the house. It wasn't long until both were overflowing, and I had to construct the garden wall—howing to Pring—have now, a big plot of ground under a latticed roof and screened in with vine-clad wire mesh all around."

Powell was a pioneer in this, too. There was nothing published on growing orchids outdoors, and he had to work out his own methods. Morning and evening he spent in the garden, and holidays in the jungle.
"The best pickings I ever had," he recalled, "was when Gatun Lake was filled to the 57-foot level in 1912. That lasted for two or three years, before the orchids that would not grow on dead wood began to fall.
Discovered 109 Species of Orchid.
"We would go out in a boat and pull the precious finds from the tops of the trees with a boat-hook on a long pole. Sometimes the boatman would have to climb for a high one. About a dozen species new to science were discovered there, and on the edge of the lake I found the Sobralia Powellia, with white flowers averaging to nine inches across. The one in my garden is the only known remaining specimen in the world."

Powell has discovered 109 distinct species of orchid, and many others new to science were discovered there, and on the edge of the lake I found the Sobralia Powellia, with white flowers averaging to nine inches across. The one in my garden is the only known remaining specimen in the world."

Orchid hunting is no pleasure jaunt," he said, and Pring, painfully recalling his burro ride across Colombian mountains, winced appreciatively. "You don't go out and pick them off the low branches, as you would gather cherries or peaches. You go deep into the jungle and you cut your way through. Your man can't do it for you. Each carries his own machete and fights his own battle."

"I remember one time when it looked as if I would have to look behind several plants of a bulky variety, because they and the machete could not be handled at the same time. The underground was not so dense for a foot or two above ground. I cut down on hands and knees and brought home the orchids."

Guard One Variety of Plant.
"A colony of vicious ants always is found in the roots of the bucket orchid," Powell did not mention it, but one variety of bucket orchid is named in his honor.
"I am beginning to believe the eggs and waste nourish the orchid. The natives won't touch them. Before he is through the ants are swarming all over him and biting him everywhere."
As the branch falls the Indian scrambles down and dives in the nearest water. You make a noise in a long rope tied to the branch and jerk it into the water. In a half hour or so the ants have drowned or floated away. Then you can pick up your rare find, but not before.

Petals of Orchid Hunting.
"Up in Chiniqui, in the northwestern corner of Panama, orchids are found in abundance at an altitude of 4000 to 6000 feet. Likewise abundant are baranacas, steep gullies like those in the Rockies, maybe hundreds of yards long and 1000 feet deep. One day about six years ago—I was 66 then—I saw a fine plant growing on a half-dead limb that grew out almost horizontally over one of those baranacas.
"I never saw you before," I thought, "and I won't let you get away, baranaca or no baranaca. My man shinned over a few feet on that diving branch and then scurried back, scared at the prospect of a 500-foot fall. That made me mad. I threw off hat, coat and shoes and went after that orchid. Just as I reached out for it the branch cracked. My heart stopped. But I never let loose my grip on that plant and scurried back to earth like a scared chipmunk."

"And that"—he turned to his fellow orchidist and excitedly half rose from his chair—"that was the first time I ever saw the Odontoglossum Powellia!" One of this very rare species, the gift of Powell, bloomed last year at Shaw's Garden for the first time in the United States.

ST. LOUIS BOY, 14, DROWNED ON LAST DAY OF VACATION

Marshall C. Youhill With
Grandparents at House
Springs, Mo., for Outing
Loses Life.

The body of Marshall Charles Youhill, 14 years old, of 6917 Bradley avenue, who was drowned Monday in the Big River near House Springs, Mo., was recovered yesterday afternoon.

Efforts to recover the body Monday after the boy had disappeared in the swollen stream were unsuccessful, although his 65-year-old grandfather, William W. Marshall of the Bradley avenue address, spent five hours diving with a rescue party where the boy was last seen.

The drowning occurred while Youhill was at House Springs, 30 miles southwest of St. Louis, on an outing. A capable swimmer, he ventured farther out than the others of the party and was paddling about in the deep water when the others heard him scream for help.

Apparently a cramp had seized him. He went down before rescuers could reach him. Funeral services will be held at 8 a. m. tomorrow with interment in Calvary Cemetery.

Marshall resided with his mother and grandparents. He was to have begun his first year in high school yesterday. His mother was out of town Monday when his grandparents took him on a final vacation outing, and returned to St. Louis yesterday after having been informed by wire of the tragedy.

On looking at Sexton, with his face blackened with charcoal, the girls said he was the man that costed them. Police attach importance to this identification as a girl was accused by a Negro in Forest Park 50 minutes later, at a point about a block from Oakland and Hampton avenues. This girl and her escort have failed to identify Sexton as the assailant. Sexton, however, insists that he is not the man who committed the crime, and denies accosting the girls.

Bertillon photographs of Sexton, with his face blackened, have been forwarded to Toledo and Nashville, where a morden, described as a Negro, committed a series of assaults on women months ago. Sexton, however, insists that the only crime committed by him outside of St. Louis since his escape was when he stole a check for $350 from the mails in Dallas, Tex. He had been mailed to a friend as compensation for loss of an eye in an industrial accident.

Chief of Detectives Kaiser and Sexton's victims here will confer today with Acting Circuit Attorney Wilson to determine the probability of a death sentence for Sexton. If a life sentence seems to be the maximum in view, Chief Kaiser said, Sexton may be turned to Mississippi from which escaped after being sent to prison for life for a crime against a girl.

TWO ITALIAN JOURNALISTS FIGHT DUEL WITH RAPIERS One of Participants Wounded and Three Women Faint at Sight of Blood.

NICE, France, Sept. 8.—Two Italian journalists fought a rapier duel at sunrise today before a group of 20 newspapermen in the hills behind Nice.
The duelists, who quarreled over Fascism, were Leonardo Campitelli, editor of the Italian page of the Nice newspaper, La France, and Giuseppe Porta, a reporter employed by Il Pensa Libera Latina, a fascist paper, also published in Nice.

Porta was wounded in the arm, but neither principal would declare his honor satisfied.
Four French reporters, none of whom had ever seen a duel, arranged the meeting with the assistance of a dueling primer.

Three women fainted at the sight of the blood. This caused more excitement than the duel itself.

PRISONER IDENTIFIED BY THREE MORE GIRLS

John Sexton's Face Blackened
in Effort to Fix Other Crimes on Him.

John Sexton, 20-year-old escaped convict, who has confessed assaulting a 15-year-old girl and robbing four women, yesterday was viewed at headquarters by three girls, from 20 to 22 years old, who were accosted by a strange man at Oakland and Hampton avenues Wednesday night. The man attempted to drag one of the girls into Forest Park, but fled when the girls screamed, and a motorist approached.

On looking at Sexton, with his face blackened with charcoal, the girls said he was the man that costed them. Police attach importance to this identification as a girl was accused by a Negro in Forest Park 50 minutes later, at a point about a block from Oakland and Hampton avenues. This girl and her escort have failed to identify Sexton as the assailant. Sexton, however, insists that he is not the man who committed the crime, and denies accosting the girls.

$4200 STOLEN IN HOLDUP OF TWO BANK EMPLOYEES

Wellston Trust Co. Treasurer and Bookkeeper
Robbed by Three Men at Busy Corner in Suburb.

An automobile, stolen from its owner's garage early last Friday, was used yesterday afternoon by three robbers when they held up two employees of the Wellston Trust Co. on Easton avenue, the busy main thoroughfare of Wellston, escaping with three heavy money sacks, containing $4252 in silver and bills. Silver coins comprised $1714 of the loot.

The machine was abandoned on Carson road, near Natural Bridge road, where county officers found it last night. One fender was bent where it had smashed into the car of Harry A. McKee, treasurer of the bank, as he was crowded to the curb. The abandoned machine was claimed by Armando Pacini, 4574 Laclede avenue, who had reported it stolen.

Three suspects arrested.
Three men were arrested last night as suspects and will be viewed today by McKee and his companion in the machine, George Blackford, a bookkeeper.
As told in late editions of yesterday's Post-Dispatch, McKee and Blackford had obtained the sacks at the People's Motorbus Co., 2300 Easton avenue. The money, largely in silver, comprised receipts for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

They were three blocks from the bank at 6212 Easton avenue, when the robbers' car drew up. As McKee stopped, two men jumped out with sawed-off shotguns and handkerchief masks. One took McKee's Blackford of the sacks, taking them from the rear seat, where the bookkeeper sat.

Details of the Robbery.
One robber tossed the sacks into their car, while his companion brandished his shotgun at a bus foot. As the third robber started in the machine, the other scrambled in. A short distance west of the bank it turned north on Klenlen avenue.
It was McKee's second trying experience with robbers. On Sept. 19, 1924, when five men robbed in the day.

DIES OF INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

MRS. ARTHUR STOCKSTROM.

LEADER OF BAPTIST MISSION
ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT
Brother Reimburses Church for Ice Cream Social Loss; Charge
May Be Dropped.

William Tucker, 25-year-old chauffeur and leading member of the Washington Park Baptist Mission, was arrested yesterday in East St. Louis on a warrant charging embezzlement of $40.50 of the receipts of an ice cream social given a month ago by the Busy Bee Club, one of the church's organizations.

H. D. Potter, leader of the club, told policemen he gave Tucker $40.50 to pay the expenses of the social. Tucker, he said, explained that he had been arrested in St. Charles last week and had spent the money for a fine. After his arrest, yesterday, his brother re-imposed the church, and it is probable the prosecution will be dropped. Tucker lives in Washington Park, a suburb of East St. Louis.

Details of the Robbery.
One robber tossed the sacks into their car, while his companion brandished his shotgun at a bus foot. As the third robber started in the machine, the other scrambled in. A short distance west of the bank it turned north on Klenlen avenue.

TRAIN SETS RECORD IN RACE TO INJURED

Brothers of Late Mrs. Mary
Stockstrom Go to Mother's Bedside in a Special

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HYANNIS, Mass., Sept. 8.—A special train, run from Chicago at a cost of $5000, saved several hours for Carl D. and Thomas L. Kelly, steel manufacturers, in a race to the bedside of their mother and sister, who were injured in an automobile accident at Mashpee, near here, Monday night, when another sister, Mrs. Mary Ellen Stockstrom of St. Louis, was killed.

The brothers made the run in 23 hours, beating the Chicago-Boston time of the Twentieth Century Limited by 52 minutes.
Mrs. Stockstrom's husband, Arthur Stockstrom, assistant secretary of the American Stove Co., who left St. Louis yesterday, arrived here today and took charge of his four children, two girls, 4 and 4 years old, and twin boys, 18 months old. They live at 6425 Wydown boulevard, Clayton, Mo.

Mrs. Stockstrom, as was told yesterday, was riding with her mother, Mrs. Thomas E. Kelly of Chicago, and her sister, Mrs. Albin Bastien of Hubbard Wood, Ill., in a car driven by the Kelly chauffeur. Near Mashpee it upset in a collision with a machine driven by Douglas L. McKay of Bronxville, N. Y., former Deputy Police Commissioner of New York City. McKay was held under $1000 bond, charged with reckless driving, pending an inquest.

Mrs. Stockstrom was killed outright by skull fracture. Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Bastien were cut and bruised, but it is thought not seriously. Mrs. Kelly's son, who lives in Youngstown, O., were in Chicago when they learned of the accident and immediately chartered the special train.

CALLES TO IGNORE BISHOPS' PETITION ON RELIGIOUS LAW

Document Is Filed in Archives of Mexican Congress, and Will Remain There Indefinitely.

TIGHTENING OF BOYCOTT PLANNED

Prelates Issue a Letter to Catholics Urging Them to Continue Resistance for Years if Necessary.

By ARTHUR CONSTANTINE, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publishing Co., (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—President Calles' successor will be given an opportunity to consider the Catholic clergy's petition for constitutional reforms.

After its entry upon the records of Chamber of Deputies yesterday, the petition was filed away in the archives. There it will remain indefinitely, party leaders announced. The present administration will ignore it.

Ordinarily responsible petitions from the electorate get a formal reading before the Senate and House. Even that courtesy, it was stated, would be denied the Episcopate.

Party leaders say they are under no necessity to advertise the cause of the church.

Meanwhile the clergy is industriously circulating a pastoral letter to the faithful urging them to stand by the church in the conflict with the Government. Through the Catholic League of Religious Defense, the clergy also is distributing petitions. Those call on Congress to grant the reforms demanded by the church. The clergy seek 2,000,000 signatures.

Archbishop Francisco Orozco in a letter tells why the militant head of the Jalisco diocese should assume direction of this drive for an expression of public opinion.

Leaders of the League of Catholic Defense will urge the faithful to intensify the economic boycott.

Bishops Urge Catholics to Continue Resistance.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8.—Mexican Catholics are exhorted in a letter signed by all the Catholic Archbishops and Bishops of the country, to maintain unyieldingly for months, years or centuries, if necessary, resistance to the religious laws promulgated by the Government.

The letter conveys the blessings and sympathy of the Pope and the Mexican episcopate. Instructions are reiterated in the letter to maintain solidarity never yielding in the slightest and "resting confident in the blessings of God and in the church and the admiration and approval of the whole world for their manifestation of faith and virile Christianity."

The letter declares that the Catholic organization in Mexico is stronger daily, "although for the first time in 400 years Christ's earthly representatives are absent from Mexican Catholic churches," and adds that "this demonstration of faith constitutes a mute but eloquent protest of the overwhelming opposition of the Mexican people to the antireligious laws which, unless they weaken, is certain of final triumph."

Priest Says Mexican Boycott Is Having Effect.

By the Associated Press.
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 8.—The Catholic boycott undertaken in Mexico since enforcement of antireligious laws by the Mexican Government, is more successful than President Calles lets it be known, the Rev. Francis E. Lehoucq, editor of America, a Catholic magazine, declared in an address before the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, in convention at St. Mary's College here.

THOMPSON WINS $5000 ON HORSESHOE PITCHING GAME

54 Rings Scored in Match in Chicago Ballroom With Spectators in Evening Clothes.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Former Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago is $5000 richer today for having demonstrated the possibilities of horseshoe pitching and elevated the ancient game from barnyard to ballroom.

He won the richest stake in the history of the sport when Carroll and Hansford Jackson, two Iowa sons of the former national champion, pitched a total of 54 rings in a contest won by Hansford, 54 points to 48.

Thompson's wager with his old friend, Parker Blatchford was that he could produce two men who could make 50 rings in a 50-point game.

Attired as Spanish matadors, the youths flung gilded shoes to the rhythm of a stringed orchestra in a public ballroom last night, while an audience in evening dress cheered.

DAY CUP SWIMMING CONTEST FOR WOMEN WILL BE REVIVED

Winner Will Get Free Trip to Europe for Attempt to Cross the Channel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A free trip to Europe for an attempt to swim the English channel will be the ultimate reward of one of the girls who will compete in the Joseph P. Day cup race in New York Bay next summer. Some details of the revival of the international swimming classic for women were announced last evening.

The Day cup race of 1927 will be a three-mile swim, finishing at Manhattan Beach. The first six to finish will be eligible for another test from the Battery to Sandy Hook, the winner of which will be the one selected for the channel attempt. Day will underwrite all expenses.

In was in the Day cup race of 1922 that Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the channel, came into prominence. It is expected that representatives from several foreign countries will be sent to write all expenses.

Petitions to Oust Mayor Miller
Must Be Filed by Sept. 23.

Sept. 23, two weeks from tomorrow, will be the last possible day for the filing of the petitions to get the proposal on the ballot Nov. 2 for the recall of Mayor Miller.

John J. Hell, head of the recall organization said today that he could make no announcement as to when the petitions would be filed with the Board of Election Commissioners. He denied that he had said they would be filed Sept. 20.

When asked as to the number of names obtained in a supplementary canvass, which he has declared was being made in the last few weeks, Hell said he had nothing to say.

The charter allows the Election Board 16 days to check the signatures after the petitions are filed. Registered voters equal to 20 per cent of the votes cast in the last election for Mayor, including 20 per cent in each of 19 wards, must sign the petitions to get the recall proposal on the ballot. If there are enough signatures the Election Board shall submit the question at the first election held not less than 30 days nor more than 90 days after the completion of its check.

If the signatures are found sufficient, 40 days will suffice between the filing of the petitions and the election. But if the signatures are insufficient, and supplementary petitions are needed, at least 30 days must be added. In such case, it already is too late to file the petitions for this fall's regular election.

The recall workers have announced, from the first, that they did not intend to put the city to the expense of a special recall election. The next regular election after that of Nov. 2 will be the election of aldermen in April.

Republican party leaders, even those unfriendly to Mayor Miller, have objected to having the recall proposal placed on the ballot this fall, fearing that it would divide the party vote and endanger the election of Senator Williams, if not of local candidates. The Republican majority in spring aldermanic elections is normally so large that it is believed the recall proposal could be voted on then without endangering the party dominance.

Another important point is that of the possible succession to the office of Mayor. If a recall proposal should be carried in the November election, President Neun of the Board of Aldermen would become Mayor until next April only, and a Mayor would be elected then. But if the recall were submitted next April, and carried then, Neun would become Mayor and hold office for more than a year and a half until the election of November, 1928.

ORDINANCE FORBIDS DISGUISES

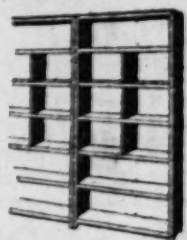

Norfolk, Va., Acts After Kidnaping of Priest by Robbed Band.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 8.—The City Council has adopted an ordinance to prohibit the wearing in a public place of any costume concealing the identity of the wearer. The council announced the action was taken for the preservation of public safety.

The motion was approved unanimously without discussion and without reference to the recent kidnaping in Princess Anne County of the Rev. Vincent D. Warren, a Catholic priest of this city, by a robed band, or the recent removal of a quantity of liquor from a Norfolk gas filling station by a group of masked men.

BIG FOUR ROUTE

ST. LOUIS SLAYER DROWNED AFTER FLEEING PRISON

Body of Arthur W. Bittner, Who Killed Father in 1912, Found in Missouri River Near St. Charles.

ONE OF FIVE WHO ESCAPED FRIDAY

Thought to Have Become Exhausted When Trying to Swim River at Jefferson City.

The body of Arthur W. Bittner, life convict and former leader of the Missouri penitentiary band, one of five convicts who escaped from a canning plant on prison grounds last Friday night, was found yesterday afternoon in the Missouri river, nine miles south of St. Charles and about 100 miles from Jefferson City. He had drowned presumably while attempting to swim across the Missouri at Jefferson City.

Bittner, who was 38 years old, shot and killed his father, a North St. Louis butcher, in 1912, because the father refused him money to marry. He was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. He played a horn in the prison band and was its leader until a few weeks ago. In 1916 he escaped, went to Europe and on his return was arrested at Norfolk, Va.

A posse of guards pursued the escaping convicts, Friday, but found no trace of them. It is now believed the convicts took to the river at Jefferson City. The river at that point is wide and the current swift. Bittner is thought to have become exhausted or suffered cramps. The body had been in the water several days. It was recovered by the crew of a ferry boat. It was dressed in a numbered prison uniform.

The whereabouts of the other convicts is unknown. They are Tom J. Ferguson, St. Louis, serving a life term for robbery and as an habitual criminal; James Wood, St. Louis, seven years for robbery; Earl Hodgerson, Kansas City, five years, and Fred Tryon, Callaway County, 25 years for robbery. Bittner formerly was leader of the prison band.

The drowning of Bittner was the third tragic death in his family. Shortly after he was convicted of murdering his father, his mother, who had defended him as one not responsible for his acts, became mentally unbalanced and died. His two brothers and a sister survive. The funeral will be held here, but details have not been announced.

GEN. HARBORD DENOUNCES DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM

Tells Legion It Will Be to Blame If Debt Settlement Is Legacy of 62 Years of Hatred.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Sept. 8.—Shortcoming of the average American voter were diagnosed today by Major-General James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, in an address before the State convention of the American Legion here. The commander of the American troops at Chateau Thierry appealed to the veterans of his home state to take political leadership into their own hands.

"The old ship of State is far from being on the rocks," he said. "The alarm to be felt in this country is not so much at conditions as at the indifference, ignorance and neglect of the ordinary duties of citizenship, which have brought about these conditions."

"Because of his indifference, the American voter has allowed himself to be saddled with a primary system to which he pays little or no attention. The primary makes for corruption, for increased expense, and has resulted in a lowering of the average capacity and character in the candidates selected. Only wealthy men can aspire to high office under the primary system."

Criticizing the average American for neglecting to form an opinion on the foreign policy of the United States, Gen. Harbord said the veterans would be to blame if a debt settlement with France "should bring to our grandchildren the accumulated ill will of 42 years."

AGREE ON NAVAL ARMAMENTS

Geneva Committee Favors Limit on Guns as Well as Tonnage.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 8.—The United States delegation to the Preparatory Disarmament Committee obtained satisfaction when the naval subcommittee decided unanimously yesterday that any system for the limitation of naval armaments by the method of total tonnage should prescribe the maximum tonnage of warships and the maximum caliber of guns.

Admiral Hilary Jones, presenting the view of the United States, combatted the French proposals, which favored limitation by total tonnage and declared that the application of this would not abolish competition in naval armaments or lessen international suspicion and misgivings.

Manila House Opposes Bacon Bill.

MANILA, Sept. 8.—The House of the Philippine Legislature today adopted a concurrent resolution protesting against the passage by Congress of the Bacon bill separating the Moro regions from the northern provinces of the Insular Government. The resolution now goes to the Senate, where it is expected to be adopted unanimously.

Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on MAYR'S, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and bile ailments, including appendicitis. POISON ON CANDY

MAN GAVE TO WIFE

City Chemist Examines Sweets
Which Made Mrs. Naida
Vogel and Two Others Ill.

A warrant against Wilhelm Vogel, 27 years old, of 5550 Maple avenue, will be sought by the police today as the result of the finding of poison on several pieces of candy in the box which he gave to his estranged wife, Naida, 23 years old, Saturday.

A preliminary report made yesterday by City Chemist Buckland said the pieces examined appeared to have been sprinkled with a poison powder. Vogel, who has been held at Carondelet District Station since Sunday, reiterated his denial that he had tampered with the box after buying it in a South Side drug store.

Mrs. Vogel, her friend Mrs. Marie Schweikert, 28, of 4714 South Grand boulevard, and Mrs. Schweikert's daughter, Ida, 7, all became ill from eating the candy but have recovered.

The Vogels quarreled Thursday night and Mrs. Vogel had moved to Mrs. Schweikert's home. Vogel called Saturday evening and left the candy with Mrs. Schweikert during his wife's absence.

CATTLE DEALERS TO FACE

COURT ON BOND CHARGES

Eight in East St. Louis Held for Not Complying With Federal Law.

Eight cases involving the alleged refusal of cattle dealers to take out bonds to protect shippers will be heard Friday at East St. Louis. The dealers are doing business at the National Stockyards and are charged by the Government with failing to execute bonds as required under the packers' and stockyards' act.

They are John Moll, Joe Boehm, D. J. Hannigan, Max Baum, E. P. Daniels and W. W. Dunham, trading as Dunham & Daniels; Bernard Greve, Daniel P. Collins and E. T. Cash.

The Government also is prosecuting C. C. Seal & Co., a firm of cattle dealers at Cincinnati, on a charge of misrepresenting the price of a consignment of hogs shipped by Card A. Smith of Washington, Ind. This case will be called tomorrow at Cincinnati.

AID SUES BLODGETT PRIEST

FOR $120 SPENT IN CAMPAIGN

John B. Faust of Cole County Says
He Wrecked Auto Working for Wet.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 8.—Suit for $120.00 has been filed in Cole County Circuit Court here against Blodgett Priest of St. Louis, defeated wet candidate for the Republican nomination for the Senate, by John B. Faust, County Treasurer and manager of the Priest campaign in this county.

Faust says he expended the money in behalf of Priest's campaign and asks that it be returned. His claim as itemized includes $83 for automobile repairs, $4.50 for printing, $10 for gasoline, $7 for rent of a speaker's stand in front of the State Capitol, and $10 for incidentals. Faust alleges he wrecked his automobile campaigning for Priest.

"I don't see how I am responsible for Faust running his car into a ditch," Priest said today. "I wasn't even in the car at the time. I'm sorry he had the accident but that's all. I never authorized him to spend any money for me on his car or on anything else."

ELECTRIC RABBIT INVADES ENGLAND

Coursing Greyhounds With Artificial Prey Draws Crowds at Manchester.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)
LONDON, Sept. 8.—An American syndicate promoting electric coursing appears to have created a new sport which is taking England by storm, although it has as yet not been introduced in London. The cruelty of coursing in which greyhounds chase live hares and tear them to pieces is eliminated by the invention of an electric hare which greyhounds chase under fairer racing conditions than ever before. Already, after a few weeks' tryout, three races a week are held in Manchester under arc lights at night. Each meeting is attended by from 12,000 to 20,000 spectators. The American shareholders in the new venture, according to the Westminster Gazette, include several well-known names. Among the prominent people here who have already raced greyhounds on the Bellevue track, Manchester, are the Duchess of Sutherland, the Marchioness of Cholmondeley, Lord and Lady Stanley, Lady Maidstone, Mrs. Dudley Coats and Lady Alastair Innes-Kerr. The National Sporting Club, which has charge of the sport of coursing and the Waterloo cup coursing classic in which live hares are killed, is reported to have view the new and more popular sport askance and to be considering the disqualification of all greyhounds which chase electric hares instead of real ones.

PLACING OF STREET SIGNS IS COMPLETED

12,000 New Ones at Intersections Makes Total of 20,000 in City, Brooks Says.

The task of putting up signs bearing the names of intersecting streets at all intersections over the city has been completed. Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks said today.

He estimated that in the last year his department had put up 12,000 new signs, making a total of 20,000. It is his opinion that all street intersections now have signs, though if citizens note any that have been missed the oversight will be taken care of at once.

Director Brooks said also that he would recommend, when the work of replacing gas lamps with electric in the downtown section is begun, that ornamental bronze signs be used in the section bounded by Twelfth boulevard, Fourth street, Chouteau avenue and Morgan street. No type of sign yet has been selected, but Brooks suggests that they conform to the new light standards. The Board of Aldermen has appropriated $400,000 for the new downtown lighting system, but the contract for its installation has not been let.

For many years pedestrians and motorists complained that the lack of street signs in certain sections of the city made it difficult for persons unfamiliar with the locality to find their destination.

CHILD DIES OF ANT BITES

Girl, 19 Months Old, Attacked in Yard of Her Home.

AMARILLO, Tex. — Jimmie Lee Pierce, 19-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pierce of this city, is dead from the effects of bites of large red ants, which crawled on her body as she played in the back yard of her home while her mother hung clothes on the washline only a few feet away.

Her body was a mass of green poison spots when the mother gathered her in her arms. The child gave no outcry until after being taken into the house, and then she passed into almost immediate unconsciousness.

Woman Killed in Leap From Auto.

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 8 — A scream from a child on seeing the glowing wires of an automobile heater, thinking the car was on fire, resulted in the death of Mrs. Effie Ashbell of Canton, Ill., yesterday. The child shouted that the car was on fire and Mrs. Ashbell leaped from the car, striking head first on the concrete roadway. Her neck was broken.

OCTOBER 16TH OF THIS YEAR IS THE 35TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS

For Thirty-Five Years This Great School Has Been Helping Men to Succeed in Business and in Life

The merit of its instruction and a sincere desire to serve have made possible the enrolment of 3,400,000 students

THIRTY-FIVE years ago this October, the International Correspondence Schools were founded at Scranton. That was the birth of the idea of correspondence instruction. That was the beginning of a new method of training that has since become an indispensable part of the educational program of the nation.

Any institution that survives the storm and stress of thirty-five years and shows increasing vitality with the passing of each milestone must have in it the chief essential of success in any enterprise or individual... merit!

Back of this remarkable record of achievement, there looms a sturdy and heroic figure—the successful I. C. S. student. He abounds in every city, town, village and hamlet in the whole land. He is the finished product of the "University of the Night" and the real reason for its survival and increasing success. At the head of industrial establishments, in the field, in the office, on the firing line, and on the staff, each at his task intent, he is unconsciously the mainspring, the accelerator, the motive power to the progress of the I. C. S.

Half of all the students enrolled by the International Correspondence Schools every day, every month, and every year are guided to our doors by his experienced and helpful hand, while the other half are inspired to enter our portals by the sheer force of his example.

To these men and women, who are among the leaders in business and industry today, we dedicate this 35th anniversary of their alma mater. To these men and women, we extend a cordial invitation to take part in the Anniversary Campaign now being carried on in every section of this country as part of the 35th birthday celebration of the International Correspondence Schools.

Insist On This

Every one of us welcomes suggestions for our welfare—if they are advanced in a kindly manner and with sincerity. So introduce to her this topic concerning health protection and refinement.

DISEASE prevention is the most important doctrine in modern medicine. Science readily recognizes the advisability of thwarting disease before it starts.

The nose, as many of us are aware, is the gateway for most infectious diseases. Consequently nasal hygiene is of first importance if we are to prevent disease.

Nasal hygiene means daily nasal cleanliness. There is one way now whereby daily nasal cleanliness can be obtained with very little effort.

ARZEN applied in the nostrils night and morning, with the provided medicine dropper, results in thorough nasal cleanliness. Yet it only requires a moment.

The advantages are many. First, the nasal passages are cleared. Disease germs are cleared. We breathe deeper, better and more freely. The whole body benefits thereby.

There follows a pleasant sense of fastidious freshness and personal hygiene. One would not more leave off this daily custom than we would abandon the use of the tooth brush.

SPECIFIC USES

Arzen used daily prevents colds. Stops them if started. An excellent Hay Fever Relief. An aid in sinus trouble. Daily nasal cleanliness prevents infectious disease. Keep the nose as clean as the face.

MOSES RENOMINATED FOR SENATE BY 20,000

World Court Foe Wins Three-cornered Contest in New Hampshire.

By the Associated Press. — MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 8.—Senator George H. Moses, Republican foe of the World Court, has been renominated by a plurality of approximately 20,000.

In returns from 261 of 294 towns and wards from yesterday's primary, Moses, president pro-tem of the Senate, led his nearest opponent, former Governor Bass, by 17,367. The vote was: Moses 32,859, Bass 15,492, former Judge James W. Remick of Concord 399. Spaulding's opponent next November will be Mayor Sargent of Nashua, Democrat, nominated without opposition.

Gov. John G. Winant was defeated for renomination by Huntley N. Spaulding of Rochester by a plurality of more than 3000. Not since 1878, when the two-year gubernatorial term was adopted, has New Hampshire sent a Governor back to office.

Senator Moses' opponent at the State election next November will be Robert C. Murchie, a Concord attorney, who won the Democratic nomination over Albert W. Noone of Peterboro by a plurality of 2000. Spaulding's opponent next November will be Mayor Sargent of Nashua, Democrat, nominated without opposition.

Oddie Far Ahead on Nevada Returns.

By the Associated Press. — RENO, Nev., Sept. 8.—On the face of returns early today from Nevada's primary yesterday, United States Senator Oddie, World Court advocate, defeated his opponent, Mayor E. E. Roberts of Reno, for the Republican senatorial nomination by approximately 2 to 1. Latest figures from the State's 17 counties gave: Oddie, 7816; Roberts, 3741.

In the Democratic race for the senatorial nomination, Raymond T. Baker, who served under President Wilson as director of the mine, held his lead over his three opponents in the four-cornered race.

Baker, a World Court proponent, who professes to be guided by the State dry referendum in November, polled 4336 votes, P. A. McCarran, who made his fight principally against the World Court, polled 2495 votes, while C. H. McIntosh, wet and anti-Court candidate, received 1120. Dr. W. H. Brennan, the fourth candidate and a dry, received 725 votes.

Georgia Democrats Nominate Ticket in Primary Today.

By the Associated Press. — ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 8.—Georgia voters went to the polls today to nominate Democratic candidates for United States Senator, Congress and State offices. The Democratic nomination in Georgia is equivalent to election.

R. B. Russell, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, has made his campaign for the seat now held by United States Senator George on opposition to the World Court. Senator George has declined to recognize the World Court as an issue.

Overshadowing the senatorial race in State interest is the gubernatorial contest, in which four men seek the nomination. Charges and counter charges of machine politics featured the campaigns of John N. Holder, chairman of the State Highway Commission; George Casswell, former president of the State Senate; Dr. L. G. Hardman and Joe Wood, former member of the State Legislature; Congressman W. D. Upshaw of the Fifth (Atlanta) District, has as his opponents L. J. Steele and Mayor Sims of Atlanta.

Hunt Ahead in Fight for Sixth Term.

By the Associated Press. — PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 8.—Gov. G. W. P. Hunt, who is seeking a sixth term, had a slight majority in the three-cornered contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination today on the face of returns of yesterday's primary from 175 of the 484 Arizona precincts.

The vote: Hunt 7052, E. E. Ellinwood, Phoenix attorney, 3669, State Senator J. C. Cox 323.

gubernatorial nomination found E. S. Clark, former territorial Attorney-General, leading Tom Maddock, former State Engineer, by 780 votes. The returns: Clark 3025, Maddock 2245.

Carl Hayden, Congressman-at-large, apparently had swamped Charles H. Rutherford of Phoenix in the contest for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Returns from 175 precincts gave: Hayden 4509, Rutherford 1420.

Senator Ralph H. Cameron, Republican, was unopposed for renomination.

30 DAYS IN WORKHOUSE FOR LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT

Earl Gardner Also Fined $50 for Careless Driving, Takes an Appeal.

Earl Gardner, 26 years old, a shipping clerk, of 1426 Salisbury street, was given a 30-day workhouse sentence for leaving the scene of an accident and a $50 fine for careless driving by Police Judge Beck today. He appealed.

Sunday morning, Gardner's automobile struck D. C. McClure of 2019 O'bear avenue, in front of 4646 Easton avenue. Gardner was overtaken and taken back by a policeman in McClure's automobile.

McClure was fined $10 for hitting Gardner on his return to the scene, but the fine was stayed. Gardner declared he did not know his machine had struck anyone.

Why we 209 St. Louis Mobiloil dealers are displaying this card

As reputable citizens of this city we deplore the existence of any dishonorable practice in business. As dealers in automotive supplies we are fully awake to the dangers of inferior lubrication of automobile engines. As dealers in genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil in bulk we are resolved not to have our good will tampered with by unscrupulous retailers who may substitute other oils (often grossly inferior) when asked for Mobiloil.

That is why we are displaying the agreement card printed above.

This campaign is state-wide. Hundreds of other dealers all over the State of Missouri are displaying this card.

Our Business Policy

WE want it known that substitution is not tolerated in our establishment. Our customers already know this. If a motorist asks for any trade-marked oil or other article, he gets the genuine or a frank statement as to what product we offer him.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER
Dec. 12, 1878
Published by the Pulitzer Publishing Company, Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT-FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.
April 10, 1907.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For the Greater St. Louis.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to again emphasize your splendid editorial of Sept. 7 on Annexation. I feel that were I only of an open mind, and little versed in the subject that I would be converted thereby. It was a magnificent piece of heart, logic and brains, touching that side of this important question, which is ever the strongest of any issue, the moral or ethical side. It would be a fitting and splendid address for any meeting where the question is discussed; no more, nor anything more to the point, could be said, in the time it would require to deliver it. It is splendid to think that the Post-Dispatch, whose founder was so closely associated with the great project co-incident with the last expansion of St. Louis—the establishment of Forest Park—should be, as it were, his reincarnated 50 years later, in carrying the standard of progress at the very forefront of this march of our fair city to her coveted, and justly deserved place in the sun. To me an attitude such as you are showing in this matter, is but the "Glorious Dawning of a Grand Day" for our Grand St. Louis. Bravo—Post-Dispatch. JOSEPH FORSHAW.

Daugherty, Then and Now.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In the Bible we read: "The wicked have drawn out the sword, they have bent their bows, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay the upright in the way. But their sword shall enter into their own hearts and their bows shall be broken."

One more quotation, a few words of comment, and I am through. "H. M. Daugherty's Trial on Charge of Conspiracy to Defraud the U. S. Opens," announces a three-column headline in my evening newspaper of Sept. 7.

H. M. Daugherty is a former Attorney-General of the United States of America. Pleading for the Federal injunction against the striking railroad shompen in 1922, Daugherty said in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court: "And he it understood, that so long and to the extent to which I can speak for the Federal Government, I will use the full power of the legal branch of that Government to prevent the labor unions of this country, from destroying the 'open shop'."

A Federal grand jury investigating the Allen Property scandal, the case upon which Daugherty now goes to trial, cited Daugherty for contempt, after he had refused to answer questions on the ground that "the answers I would have to make might incriminate me."

This case reminds me very forcefully of "Humpty Dumpty."

MARTIN A. DILLON.

The St. Charles Bridge.

HAVING crossed the river a number of times on this bridge and realizing its condition, age, width and weakness, I cannot understand how thinking men could contemplate the purchase of a dilapidated structure of this type. In eight years it will be ready to fall to pieces and a new structure will have to take its place.

How much better it would be to put in a new wide, substantial bridge to answer the positive needs of the future at a price. Let the old bridge remain a toll bridge for freight, etc.—and the company reaping the profits may have the pleasure of owning the junk pile at the end of eight years instead of the Automobile Club or other interests.

Why be interested in a worn-out bridge any more than a worn-out, useless automobile when everybody knows one is as poor an investment as the other?

SQUARE DEAL.

The Wearing of the Green.

DURING the period of the exposition, it has become necessary to park autos in the space reserved for cars during the (opera season) Forest Park, south of the park.

As one advances to the "big show" entrance which is in a direct line across the lawn, the brilliant light dazzles the eyes, so that anyone coming toward the north, cannot be recognized until a few paces distant. Last night a flashlight was turned on a few yards ahead, and a bellowing yell yelled "Get off that green there," followed by threatening and violent gestures of the advancing man whom closer inspection revealed to be a policeman or park watchman.

Being an innocent offender the treatment was of the most insulting and degrading description—and no explanation would satisfy. It appears that the Triple A has a sacred spot that is reserved for their exclusive use, across which no pedestrian dare trespass save at his peril. There is no sign of enclosure to warn one of his infringement of their reservation nor any indication of violating the club privileges until you are caught in the trap.

Why is the general public denied access to the open spaces, and if so, why no indication of trespass so placed, to warn one against trespass and issue the following an invasion of the Triple A domain?

This strip lies in a direct line to the entrance of the exposition, across which thousands must detour to reach the gate. If the Park Commissioner and does allow a private club to do this, at a time when public convenience and necessity require the right-of-way, it's time to revoke the permit.

J. A. J.

OUR OIL SUPPLY.

Is our oil supply nearing exhaustion? Are we in sight of the oil-less age? Such questions were warranted by a report published the other day, which was prepared by the special oil conservation board created by President Coolidge. The report contained this paragraph:

The total present reserves in pumping the flowing wells in the proved sands has been estimated at about 4,500,000,000 barrels, which is theoretically but six years' supply; though, of course, it cannot be extracted so quickly.

If one stopped there, and then took into consideration that the consumption of petroleum, in its various forms and uses, is growing at an enormous rate annually, one might wonder why the oil industry itself is not preparing for the inevitable fate that appears to be swiftly and surely approaching, instead of investing fresh millions in pipe lines and refineries.

Other paragraphs are indirectly reassuring. The report points out, for example, that "there are 3,000,000 producing or proved areas in the country, containing the estimated six years' supply," and adds:

These reserves do not in themselves prove a shortening of supply. Nevertheless, their life, as compared to proved supplies of iron and coal, is such as always to cause concern.

The language is somewhat cryptic. Does the report mean that there is a falling off in the supply, or "reserves" sufficient to indicate exhaustion in a few years? If so, is the comparison of the life of oil wells with the estimated life of iron and coal mines of much value? With regard to coal, a vegetable product, the comparison might hold to a degree, petroleum being of bituminous, nonmineral origin. Shale, from which the oil industry obtains part of its product, is closely allied to coal. But iron has no such similarity, and the possibility of exhaustion of iron mines can have no bearing upon oil.

Geologists, says the report, say that 43 per cent of the country's area is barren of oil-producing strata, but the remaining 1,100,000,000 acres may or may not hold oil. Also, that deeper drilling may produce much more oil. The first well drilled was but 69-1/2 feet deep. In West Virginia they find oil at depths of 3400 feet. In Oklahoma the depth varies from 4400 to 4500 feet, while, in the new Texas Panhandle field, discovered about a year ago, oil is found at depths of 5000 feet. The oil production from this field is now over 100,000 barrels a day. Oil men say the rule is, the deeper they go the more oil they find.

The oil production having steadily increased annually up to the present time, and new fields being discovered, it savors of pessimism to suggest that we are now near the end of our oil possibilities, with less than half the country's strata explored. However, all the conservation strategists made by the Government experts should be given consideration and put into effect where practicable. We may look forward to the gradual substitution of alcohol and other fuel sources for petroleum. But there is no certainty that these will suffice, and there is every reason for the most careful conservation of petroleum and its various by-products.

WHAT WE OWE TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis is indebted to Chicago for many favors. Tears of gratitude well up when we think of the high esteem in which the Lake City has held us all these years and encouraged our every effort to grow. It has ever been a pat on the back or a "Nice work, there, St. Louis!" But perhaps the rarest bit of unselfishness displayed by our northern neighbor has been the gift of Bob O'Farrell and Grover Alexander.

No friendlier, nobler gesture has been made since the Navy sold its old gunboats to Guatemala. It was as if the Cubs had said: "We have had our pennant thrills and are growing old. Here are Old Pete and Old Bob. Take them, with an old man's blessing." Persons of mean kidney are intimating that our sister city thought it was getting the best of it in the O'Farrell trade, and that, when it turned Alex loose on the wide, wide world it allowed the old bean had lost its cunning and the right arm was a palsied fin.

Base suspicions, these, vile, rancid conjectures. We are on the crest of a spiritual upheaval. Let us be big. Let us say to Chicago, in no uncertain terms, thanks.

A Cornell chemist finds that home-made bread contains from .04 to 1.9 per cent of alcohol, which will likely put nonalcoholic bakers' bread out of business.

THE FRANKLIN SCHOOL STRIKE.

An unfortunate situation has developed from the ruling of the Board of Education converting the old-established Franklin School from a grammar to a vocational school, with the consequent redistribution of many of the children to other schools. About 500 parents whose children have attended Franklin have united in a protest, taking the form of a "strike," the children being forbidden to go to any school, encouraged to parade with banners bearing slogans uttering their protest. Efforts at changing the ruling of the School Board being exhausted, the striking parents and pupils, through their attorney, are talking of appealing to Gov. Baker and State Superintendent of Schools Lee to interfere.

Neither the Governor nor the State Superintendent of Schools has any authority over the St. Louis School Board, whose members are elected at large by the entire city, and serve under a charter granted by the Legislature in 1897.

There is much merit, however, in the contention of the protesting parents and children that this change works hardship on many of them. It has separated the children of families accustomed to go to one school, the older guarding the younger. In order to avoid the danger of having small children go to distant schools by themselves, crossing traffic-filled streets, three rooms in Franklin School are to be reserved for as many of them as possible. This will make Franklin a part vocational and a part elementary school.

After all, for whose benefit, if not the children's, are schools provided? And in changing children from one building to another, surely their interest ought to be first considered.

The interest of the child—and that includes the child's physical safety—is, or ought to be, the controlling factor in the administration of our schools. The Board of Education has the power to carry out any change it decides upon, but it makes a serious mistake when it exercises that power arbitrarily.

J. A. J.

CARL MAGEE.

Carl Magee, the Albuquerque editor, told in St. Louis yesterday the harrowing story of his persecution in New Mexico. When Magee went to New Mexico to establish a newspaper he found the State in control of a group of politicians headed by Albert Bacon Fall, who were exploiting it to their own profit and the profit of a ring of big corporations.

One of the juicy melons was a grant of 12,000,000 acres of land from the United States Government to New Mexico for the purpose of establishing a school system. This land grant was administered scandalously, and what money derived from sales was retained by the Land Commissioner and deposited without interest in favored banks. Magee's first suggestion was that the money should be sent to the State Treasurer and invested in interest-bearing securities. For this act of lese majeste he was summoned to the office of Senator Fall and ordered by Fall, under pain of being "broken on the rack," never to print another word on the subject.

This Magee refused to do, and thus began Magee's fight for the freedom of the press in New Mexico. So powerful was the Fall ring in New Mexico that Magee's sympathizers, in donating money to save his paper from being wrecked, gave cash and refused to take receipts for it. With his small personal resources and what outside help he could get, Magee defended himself against a series of indictments and contempt citations, followed by mock trials, that attracted the attention of the nation. At one time there were 25 criminal libel suits against him, and he was unable to bring any of them to trial, but was forced to combat a Fabian legal campaign which was designed to, and nearly did, throw him and his paper into bankruptcy.

Finally, when one case did come to trial, Magee was rushed before a non-English-speaking jury, denied a three-day continuance for the purpose of hiring counsel and sentenced to the penitentiary. While the case was in the hands of the jury he wrote an article for his paper about it, and for this was cited for contempt on the ground that he had discussed a pending case. After the verdict was returned, he again wrote an article about it. He was again cited for contempt on the ground that though the case was no longer pending in the lower court, it was pending in the higher courts. For 11 days this went on, and at the end of that time Magee had written 11 articles and had been cited 11 times.

Magee never served his sentence. He was pardoned by the Governor after the Governor had been deluged with demands that he do so by the public. Magee is still editing his newspaper, Fall sits in ignominy at Three Rivers, N. M. Most of the members of the political gang which held the State by the throat a few years ago have been repudiated by the people and retired to private life. The Judge who hounded Magee and conducted burlesque trials of him has been defeated for re-election. Magee has won his fight, and today freedom of the press and of speech in New Mexico, due to him, is more than an empty phrase.

VARIETIES IN BUTTERMILK.

In St. Louis buttermilk is an insipid beverage for which great health claims are made. Not so in Kansas City. In Kansas City buttermilk has a wallop in it, or so Senator Reed, first citizen of Kansas City, says. It certainly is not the sort of buttermilk of which we know anything down here that the Senator is describing in this:

The Volstead act makes it a crime to sell any liquor containing more than one-half per cent of alcohol. Of course, that is far below the intoxicating point. Buttermilk contains a good deal more alcohol than that.

Our buttermilk doesn't. It contains 90.1 per cent water, casein 3, fat 1.1, protein 4, milk sugar and lactic acid 4, and ash 0.07. Moreover, a local chemist tells us that there is not a trace of alcohol in the buttermilk we drink in St. Louis. He says alcohol can be developed in it only by exposing it to culture temperatures, after which it would be so bitter you couldn't drink it.

There are, then, obviously, varieties in buttermilk—some hard and some soft. They have the hard kind at Kansas City. How it got hard we do not know. However, we take Senator Reed's word for it. He would know.

THE DEATH OF A GENTLEMAN.

Arthur Brooks is dead. To only a few readers can the unadorned announcement have any meaning, for Brooks was rarely in the news. His task required self-effacement, and he performed it perfectly.

Brooks was a Negro steward at the White House. He was the valet to Presidents Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge. Probably no other citizen of the United States had such an opportunity to test the truth of the adage that no man is a hero to his valet.

Brooks may not have made heroes of his Presidents, but he attended to their needs with rare skill and devotion. It says much for his tact and other good qualities that he was able to win the praise and gratitude of four such dissimilar men. President Harding held Brooks in high esteem. He was an indispensable and much-loved member of the party that accompanied the President on the fatal Alaskan trip. None who knew Brooks can doubt the sincerity of President Coolidge's remark that he considered him one of the finest men in Washington.

A quiet, self-respecting gentleman was Arthur Brooks.

What a pity some of the great wits like Shaw and Tchicherin could not participate in the Geneva debate upon our World Court reservations! Something might then have been said about us that we have not already said about ourselves.

THAT DEADLY SHOE DYE.

A liquid shoe dye has poisoned five children in St. Louis in the last few weeks.

It was not taken internally by mistake, but was used as an external application to the youngsters' shoes. One printed rule on the bottle seems to have been overlooked, which says: "Do not wear shoes for six hours."

We submit that any poison so deadly that its application cannot be made to the outside of shoes with human feet in them, without endangering life, has no place on the market.

The manufacturers have had sufficient evidence of its danger, directions or no directions, and should voluntarily withdraw it from the market.

NOTES ON TEXAS.

Mr. I have heard that West Texas is a country more in accord with the imaginings of my youth. It seems that it is a country of great ranches, cotton and grain farms.

A week ago I was at dinner at the home of an acquaintance I have made. There were present just my friend, his wife, and myself. We had an appetizer before dinner and a powerful brand of home-brew with our meal. After dinner, as we sat at the table smoking, my friend's wife put on a record which he had requested: the "West Texas Blues." My friend held up his hand for silence and asked me if I could detect the wind blowing in the accompaniment to the "blues." I couldn't hear the wind, but I had been more temperate of his hospitality than he had been. However, not wanting to put upon him the burden of proof I assured him that the orchestral wind was very evident to me in the record Mrs. was playing.

"That's it," he said. "That's the West Texas wind! The wind blows like that all of the time, day and night, in West Texas. I sure miss it since I came down East." I restrained my enjoyment of this until after I had taken my departure, not wanting to offend so cordial a host.

It reminded me of the New Yorker who was seated at dinner next to a man from Seattle. Wanting to be sociable the New Yorker told his neighbor that he had been West back in 1905 when he visited Buffalo. The Seattle man replied, "Well, in 1905 I came East. I was in Cheyenne. Strange 'at we didn't meet then!"

He: That is a direct descendant of one of the original witnesses in the Hall-Mills case.

In an experiment at the University of California, the human voice, transmitted by radio, put out a fire 12 miles distant. In the absence of further reports, we shall assume it was a wet speech.

Film producers have begun to make motion pictures for posterity, which is an excellent reason for finding this a pretty good world at present.

At last Harry M. Daugherty goes to court. Wheel chairs probably will be provided for such of the witnesses as are too old and rheumatic to walk.

The manager of a private detective agency has formulated rules for jewelers who are being held up. Is there to be no room at all left for individuality in this country?

Members of the Kansas State Legislature receive only $3 a day. If the question, "What's the matter with Kansas?" is in order, we cheerfully respond, "Nothing."

Mussolini wants all Italians to take their vacations in Italy. As the charm of a vacation is the breaking of the regular routine, you can figure it out for yourself.

STATISTICAL NOTE.

An Ohio man cast a quarter-ounce bait 250 feet. This is exactly 249 feet 11 1/2 inches farther than a quarter of a dollar will go.

AS THE CROW FLIES.

Not the least pleasure of a train-ride is the infrequency of the billboard. There are never so many that they tire the eye, so that those that are seen are a welcome sight. Further, it seems part of the billboarders' code that the distance to the next town be affixed to these wayside signs. Thus it is possible, if three of these signs are near one another, to be 15, 18 and 15 miles from a place simultaneously. Perhaps the distance was measured from different points; perhaps the painter craved a little of that variety which is the spice of life; it may be merely that honest difference of opinion which causes horse races, divorces and wars. Whatever causes this state of affairs, it is not so menacing that "Truth-in-advertising" associations need do anything about it. Our plan, whenever several estimates of the distance conflict, is to accept the lowest bid.

HOMEWARD.

When long shadows fall on our pathway. And day slowly draws to a close, When even light drifts through the windows,

And earth calmly sinks in repose, How sweet to come home in the twilight, By meadow and pinewood and stream, To hear the low wind in the grasses,

To wonder, to think and to dream, The dusk like a mantle of silver, Is laid on the mountains afar, And evening is golden with silence,

And crowned with the light of a star. The light-hearted friends have departed, Their laughter has ceased with the day, We left them far down in the distance,

Alone to go home on our way. We hear in the brook's muffled murmur, In the song of the bird sailing high, In the whispering breeze, softly sighing, "Coming home, coming home, coming home."

When long shadows fall on life's pathway, That slowly leads down to the west, When tired feet linger and falter, And weary hearts hunger for rest: Ah! then, it's sweet to go homeward, Across the wild waste of the years, To walk in the peace and the silence, Courageous, this valley of tears.

The struggle and stress of the battle, Recede with the daylight's last beams, And out through the gathering darkness, The lamp of eternity gleams.

The friends we have loved long departed, Are silently gone on their way, We follow the trail they have traveled, Alone at the end of our day.

But we hear in our soul, sweet as music, And soft as the moonlight that falls, The voice of fair angels around us: "Going home, going home, going home."

THE TRAGEDY OF SYRIA

From the Manchester Guardian.

THE position in Syria appears to be moving from bad to worse. The military authorities in their effort to drive the insurgents are employing more and more ruthless measures, which are inflicting incalculable loss and suffering upon the whole population of the mandated territory, including the law-abiding majority. The same time this increasing brutality the French side seems only to be stiffening the insurgents' determination to resist their resistance. There is no indication that the struggle is nearing an end in either its principal theaters, the Damascus and the Jabal Hauran. The Damascus news from Damascus indicates that the policy of military frightfulness is again the predominant one. The Damascus is a continuous garden, about 15 miles in extent, covered with trees and vines by irrigation. In order to destroy the insurgents' strongholds, from which they virtually besieging Damascus city, the French have not only burnt and destroyed about 20 villages and destroyed thousands of fruit trees by bombing, but have cut off the water, with the result that all crops and trees in the area are threatened with destruction. What the West have said if these things had been done in Syria under the Ottoman Empire, and what the East say now if they continue to be done by the Mandatory Commission of the League of Nations!

SENATOR BUTLER'S CHANCE

From the New Haven Journal-Courier.

MR. COOLIDGE'S particular interest in Massachusetts is United States Senator William M. Butler, who is nothing less than chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Butler is a textile magnate, business life. He is up this fall for reelection and it would be extremely curious for the President to have this gentleman, who is politically skillful, influential in the East and opulent, continue at his post. Mr. Coolidge himself had a majority in the Bay State in 1924, and local pride, and if he could turn this momentum to Butler all would be well. The pestiferous Democrats are pitting Mr. Walsh against Senator Butler, and cutting in the Senate in that year 1926 Mr. Coolidge's tremendous total.

THE CITIZENS' TRAINING CAMP

From the Worcester Telegram.

UP AT the Citizens' Military Training Camp the army is fitting out youth with flat backs, supple muscles, stout hearts, a consciousness of their American responsibilities and privileges. And this last is really fine thing about the training camp. It is not manufacturing mere fighting machines. It is turning out healthy, minded young men, self-respecting, and aware of the co-ordination and independence upon which rests the strength of the United States. The fine thing about training camp is not that its students come skilled in soldiering, but that they come skilled in citizenship.

How many people actually have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Read what dentists have to say about this:

EVERY reader of Listerine advertising knows about halitosis (unpleasant breath), that insidious thing that not even your best friends discuss with you.

Yet there are still a few "doubting Thomas" folks who think halitosis is only a state of mind.

Out of simple curiosity we put this question up to a carefully selected list of dentists—1000 of them—and in a letter asked them the following:

Do you ever use Listerine, in self-defense, in the mouth of a patient troubled with halitosis, unpleasant breath?

Please answer if you use it this way (1) Frequently, (2) Occasionally, or (3) Never.

Four hundred and forty replied as follows:

83% said "Frequently"
15% said "Occasionally"
Only 2% said "Never."

Now, what human being meets halitosis at closer range, face to face, than the dentist? And who would be a better judge of this condition—and how to combat it—than the dentist?—Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, U. S. A.

60 AFFIDAVITS REOPEN CASE OF SACCO, VANZETTI

he confirmed as far as possible. It was equally obvious that so long as Madeiros had a chance to escape the electric chair it would be grossly unfair to make any use of it. On the other hand, to delay unduly might render the confession valueless.

The latter contingency was met by Rauney conceding that under the circumstances delay until after Madeiros case was disposed of would not be permitted to prejudice the case of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Madeiros obtained his new trial, was promptly convicted a second time, and on May 5 of this year, after he had been denied yet another trial, Thompson used the confession as the basis of the motion for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti soon to be argued.

Meantime he had been building up his case on the foundation given by Madeiros, and on June 17 when he was called upon to argue before Judge Thayer he had 18 affidavits. He asked more time to prepare the case, but the Court objected to further delay, thereby forcing Thompson to make public the little that is known of the affidavits upon which he now bases his plea.

Tells Madeiros' Story

Madeiros, he said, told him that in March and April, 1922, while working in Providence for an organization known as the American Rescue League, he had become acquainted with a gang of professional criminals. They were, he told the lawyer, of Italian origin, with homes in or near Providence and New York connections. The principal occupation of the gang, he said, was robbing freight cars.

In April, he said, these men induced him to join in a raid on South Braintree, whither they went on April 15. First he said they went to a saloon in Andrews Square, Boston, where they were told what time they might look for the payroll money at the Slater and Morrill factory in South Braintree. This received, the party motored back to Providence, whence they went to South Braintree, changing automobiles en route at Randolph, an isolated point where a confederate was waiting.

In South Braintree, he said, they left two men with the second car, the other three going to a speakeasy to await the time set for the $15,776 51 payroll. His part in the job was to shoot from the rear seat of the car if necessary to drive off pursuers. Actually, he said, he did no shooting owing to stage fright.

After the shooting the party, he said, motored to the place where they had changed cars, abandoned the "murder car" in Randolph for the car they had left there and separated with the arrangement that the money would be divided the next night in a Providence saloon.

Confirms Madeiros' Story.

As the next step, Thompson told the Court, he saw James F. Weeks, now serving a life sentence in Charleston State prison for his part in the Wrentham murder. Weeks at first declined to say anything. Later he changed his mind and repeated things Madeiros had told him relative to the South Braintree job. A man named Bedald, his other accomplice, never would talk.

Weeks in his story said Madeiros had described the South Braintree holdup in detail as a model to be followed in other jobs, including that in Wrentham. He made no claim to first-hand knowledge of the South Braintree job in either of two affidavits made by him, but insisted that Madeiros had named the Morelli gang as that with which he operated in South Braintree.

John J. Richards, former United States Marshal in Providence, who rounded up the Morelli gang for robbing freight yards, next contributed an affidavit in part corroborating Madeiros, and Patrolman Richard Jacobs of New Bedford produced a diary in which he had recorded seeing a member of the Morelli gang in a car similar to that of the so-called murder car on the day of the murder. Later that day others of the gang showed up and in a saloon had a heated argument.

The Morelli gang takes its name from its leader, Joe Morelli. Joe, seen by investigators for the defense, declined to assist in any way.

Affidavits from others in Providence did, the lawyers said, tend to corroborate Madeiros' story. Just what these affidavits include was not disclosed.

There also was an intimation by Thompson that witnesses of the South Braintree murder would identify pictures of the Madeiros gang as portraits of the killers.

Madeiros' Lack of Motive. In his argument Thompson stressed the fact that the confession of Madeiros was no ordinary death-house statement made after hope had fled. Madeiros, he said, had everything to lose by making the confession and nothing to gain.

"There could," said he, "be no motives except decency and a desire to keep two innocent men from the electric chair."

He further pointed out that in every step taken, Rauney, for the prosecution, had been fully advised and promptly supplied with copies of all affidavits and other data secured.

"I have," he told the Court, "no desire to delay this case further. But I am convinced of the absolute innocence of these men, and in order to prove it I am willing to submerge my present desires for an early vacation."

For the State Rauney made no objection to a two-week delay with the understanding that at the end of that period more time might be granted if necessary.

Accordingly, Judge Thayer granted two weeks' delay, which would have brought the case up again early in July.

Before the two weeks had elapsed, however, he reported ill, and it was only last week that from his resting place in Ogunquit, Me., that he instructed counsel to be ready on Sept. 13.

(Tomorrow the Post-Dispatch will tell the story of the crime of which Sacco and Vanzetti were convicted, their arrest and the events immediately following.)

Gene Tunney, in Fine Fettle, Training for Speed and Not Punch

Former Marine Tells Bob Edgren He Is Glad That He Is a "Developed" Rather Than a "Natural" Fighter—He Has Trained Himself to Avoid Losing His Temper.

By Robert Edgren.
(Copyright, 1926.)
STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—It's a long jump from Atlantic City to Stroudsburg, and a longer one from Dempsey to Gene Tunney. Down around Dempsey's quarters you see the Dempsey scowl, and Dempsey training with simulated ferocity, working himself up gradually, you might say, to the fighting fury planned to annihilate the latest challenger.

In Tunney's camp it's entirely different. There is no ferocity, no black scowling, no crouching fury of attack. Tunney doesn't grin while he works, but he doesn't growl. As he explained to me in his dressing room after today's workout, he put it up to his sparring partners when training started, and asked them if they wanted to work hard and box hard, or just be knocked around and knocked out.

"They assured me," said Tunney, "that they thought a daily bit of knocking in camp would be against my well-known humanitarian principles, and they thought I'd better save that stuff for Dempsey. So I'm saving it for Dempsey."

Tunney sat back on the rubbing cot.

"Why waste good punches knocking out sparring partners?" he asked. "Driving over a knockout punch depends on just two things, a quick and accurate calculation and a concentrated effort. The punch has to be planned so it can be used instantly when the opening appears."

"Natural" vs. "Developed" Fighter.

"I've heard people say you are a natural fighter and that a gymnasium-developed fighter is up against it in meeting a born slugger like Dempsey."

Tunney laughed.

"I'm glad I'm a developed fighter," he said. "If I wasn't I'd probably be pushing a pen instead of a boxing glove. I've developed what fighting ability I have through constant study and scientific training. In everything else, the skilled, scientifically developed man beats the man who's satisfied to depend on his natural ability."

"Are you not in fighting?"

"I'm perfectly well satisfied with my chance to beat Dempsey," Tunney said. "I wouldn't want a thing changed. I have waited until I felt sure that I was advanced sufficiently to beat him. Today I weigh 186 pounds stripped. That's big enough. I wouldn't want to be any bigger. I don't care to carry any more weight and I don't want any more muscle. Hitting power is a matter of quality, not quantity. A man with big bunched shoulders and big arms can't hit."

I never work to develop big muscles. I work to keep my muscles as soft, flexible and loose as they can possibly be. Then when I coil on them for a knockout punch they respond with a snap-zow, like that."

Tunney leaped from the rubbing cot and instantly shot his right fist forward with a sudden thrusting force of the shoulder. I noticed that his arm and shoulder muscles were all extremely long, rounded and smooth. There were no bunches anywhere.

"Do you expect this to be your hardest fight?"

"Expects to Be at His Best."

"It'll be my best fight, as far as I'm concerned," said Tunney, "but it isn't likely to be my hardest. Some of my early fights were hard. That was before I knew much about boxing. I wouldn't say my fight with Tommy Gibbons was hard. I knew just how to beat him and did. He hit me one hard right and then hooked me with the left. I hardly felt the blow. I am not much affected by blows, never have been. I don't expect to be any more hurt by Dempsey's punches than by anybody else's punches."

"Greb and Weinert Gave Me My Two Hardest Early Fights," Tunney Declares

"My first fight with Greb was hard. In the first minute Harry Greb and me broke my nose in two places. A minute later he butted me over the eye and cut my eyebrow open for three inches and a quarter, and then butted the eye and Greb. What made me mad was that it was all my blood. I took a tough beating from Harry Greb, but I beat him four times in a row afterward, when I learned something."

Tunney cured Charley Weinert.

"My hardest fight was with Charley Weinert. Charlie liked to pick up easy marks, and he tried to get me when I was just out of service and had knocked out my right man and had a small reputation started. I told my manager not to accept a match with Weinert, as I didn't know enough to fight him. Two years later I fought Weinert, and Greb told Charlie to beat me by roughing me. In the first round Charlie grabbed my head with his left hand, pulled it down and uppercut me with his right driving my teeth through my lower lip. I thought my lip was cut clear off and I had a picture of myself disfigured for life."

"I went into Weinert like a wild man beat him to the ropes and threw him out of the ring. He came back and I ran at him. He tried to wrestle me around and I was stronger than he and I twisted him. I asked thinking of my lip. I said until I could throw him over the ropes again. This time I had better luck for Charlie fell on his head on the floor and when he came back he was pretty groggy."

Some Advance.

TODAY Sam Breadon is preparing to take care of the hordes of fans expected to storm Sportsman's Park, should the Cardinals enter the world's series.

With 65,000 seating capacity at the Yankee field and 40,000 at Sportsman's Park, a million-dollar gate would be assured. The winning players would receive about $50,000 each, and each club owner's share would be well over $100,000.

14 Games, $50,000.

CONTRAST today with 25 years ago when a world's championship was played by St. Louis and New York teams, with New York winning by a top heavy margin, 10 to 4.

In that series 14 games were played, the event being barnstormed from city to city, between New York and St. Louis. The receipts for the entire 14 games would not have equalled one-fourth the receipts of a single world's series game today.

In 1886 when St. Louis won its only world's championship by defeating Anson's Colts 4 to 2, it is doubtful if the receipts for the entire series amounted to $30,000 of which the victors took all the players' share, by agreement.

Since that day baseball has progressed from a mere feeder for Chris Von der Ahe's beer department to a bona fide business with the beer long since eliminated.

Standing by.

AS it always has done with champions, the public is standing by Jack Dempsey, making him a 2 to 1 favorite today to beat Tunney. Two weeks hence, until a champion lies with his face to the resin, unconscious or helpless, the public is loath to support a challenger.

Right down the line from Sullivan to Willard it was so; but at Zita Doyle Eliminated in Another Women's Municipal Tennis Match.

Mrs. Melicent Baehr, representing the Forest Park Tennis Club, reached the fourth round of the women's tennis championship for women yesterday by defeating Wilma Benson, of Fallon Park, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. Only one other singles contest was played yesterday. Louise Rauch of Fairground upset the dope by eliminating Zita Doyle, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1, in a third round match.

In winning yesterday, Miss Rauch played a consistent game. Miss Doyle's variety of strokes enabled her to take the second set of the match but she failed to impress in the first and third sets.

Two first round matches of the women's doubles were played yesterday. Virginia Baer and Ann Kalman defeated the Brokaw sisters, Alice and Marion, 6-3, 6-2. Louise and Delphine Rauch won from Sylvia Knothe and Marion Nelson, 6-2, 7-5 in the first round.

PITTSBURG BEATS CINCINNATI, 6-1, IN FIRST CONTEST

By J. ROY STOCKTON.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8.—Pounding Pete Donohue and Fred Lucas for 15 hits and six runs, the Pirates joined the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of the double-header here this afternoon. The best of the second players could do against Me Lee Meadows was one run.

The Reds dropped to two and a half games behind the league-leading Cardinals as a result of the defeat.

FIRST INNING.

CINCINNATI—Wright threw out Zimman. Roush singled to right. Christensen forced Roush. Grantman to Wright. Pipp forced Christensen. Wright unassisted. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

PITTSBURG—Brickell doubled to right on Donohue's first pitch, scoring Zimman. Roush singled to right. Christensen forced Roush. Grantman to Wright. Pipp forced Christensen. Wright unassisted. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

CINCINNATI—Donohue grounded to Traynor. Zimman singled to center. Roush hit into a double play. Cronin to Wright to Grantman. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

PITTSBURG—Wright filed to Zimman. Grantman was called out on strikes. Traynor doubled to left. Cronin filed deep to Roush. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

CINCINNATI—Drensen doubled to right center. Waner ran into center field and hauled down Wright's drive. Hargrave walked. Ford fouled to Brickell and Brickell's perfect throw to Cronin doubled Drensen off second. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

PITTSBURG—Smith singled to center. Meadows popped to Ford. Brickell singled off Ford's shoulder. Smith stopping at second. Waner lined to Zimman. Cuyler was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

CINCINNATI—Drensen drove deep to Cuyler. Critz popped a single over Wright's head. Hargrave popped to Smith. Ford filed to Brickell. NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

CINCINNATI—Lucas batted for Donohue and grounded to Cronin. Zimman singled to center. Roush singled to right center. Zimman stopping at second. Christensen singled past Traynor, scoring Zimman and sending Roush to third. Pipp struck out and Roush was doubled off third. Smith to Wright to Grantman to Traynor. ONE RUN.

NINTH INNING.

PITTSBURG—Lucas went in to pitch for Cincinnati. Meadows singled to right. Brickell, trying to bunt, popped to Lucas. Waner popped to Cronin. Cuyler singled to right. Meadows stopping at second. Wright walked, filling the bases. Grantman beat out a hit to Critz. Meadows scoring. Traynor singled to center, scoring Cuyler and Wright and sending Grantman to third. On an attempted double steal Grantman was run down. Hargrave to Drensen to Lucas to Critz. THREE RUNS.

TENTH INNING.

CINCINNATI—Wright threw three out Drensen. Critz filed to Waner. Hargrave filed to Brickell. NO RUNS.

"We'll Win, and There Will Be No Let-Up in East," Hornsby Says

Sherdel, at His Best, Shuts Out Pirates in Final Clash of Season Between Two Flag Contenders, Though Giving Nine Hits.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—Rogers Hornsby and his Cardinals took a long stride toward giving St. Louis its first pennant since 1888 when they defeated the faltering Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in the final game of the series and the final game of the season between the two teams. The contest was the last Western game of the year for the Cardinals, with the exception of a single game scheduled at Cincinnati, Sept. 26, and except for that lone game with the Reds, the remaining battles on the St. Louis schedule are with second division clubs.

St. Louis is two games ahead of Cincinnati and four and a half games ahead of Pittsburgh. The Cardinals have 16 remaining games, while the Reds have 20 and, while the Cardinals are through with the dangerous teams, the Reds still have five games remaining with the Pirates.

Today and tomorrow are open dates for the Cardinals as far as the pennant race is concerned, but while the St. Louis athletes are resting today, or playing an exhibition game, the Reds will be meeting the Pirates in a double-header. Tomorrow, while the Cards again are resting, the Pirates will engage the Cubs in a double-header. Then Friday, while the Cardinals are playing in Boston, the Reds and Pirates will clash in another double-header and, with the Cards in Boston Saturday, the Reds and Pirates will be playing a single game.

Hornsby Says He Feels Better After Visit to Bonesetter

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8.—Rogers Hornsby returned to Pittsburgh last night after his visit to Bonesetter Reese at Youngstown, O., and departed a few minutes later for New York, accompanied by a few of the regulars who will pass up the exhibition games at Syracuse and Buffalo.

Hornsby said the bonesetter worked on him and that something snapped back into place. He said he felt some better, though his back was sore after being under the bonesetter's vice-like grip.

Hornsby will be in the Cardinal battlefront when the team opens its series at Boston Friday.

Players Not Overconfident.

Hornsby and his men are not making the mistake of holding the Eastern opponents too cheaply. They realize that the Braves, with good pitching, are dangerous and they will be bearing down, with all their might and with the best St. Louis pitchers on the hill in the four-game struggle at Boston. They also realize that the Phillies, dangerous always because of their hitting strength, are particularly dangerous in the band box Philadelphia park, where the left-handed Hornsby last evening.

STAKES BROWNS DOWN UHLE AND PRACTICALLY PUT CLEVELAND OUT OF RACE

INDIANS NOW SEVEN GAMES BEHIND YANKS

Falk, Second-String Hurler for Sisler, Holds Foe in Check — St. Louisans Play at Chicago Tomorrow.

Browns-White Sox Game Is Postponed

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Today's schedule game between the Browns and White Sox was postponed because of rain. The clubs will show tomorrow. This is the final visit of the St. Louis club here this season.

By Herman Wecke.

In all probability, the optimism of the officials of the Cleveland baseball club has turned to pessimism in the last two days.

For, be it known, the officials of the Indians have been the real optimists of the baseball world for the season of 1926. The Cleveland club, it was learned yesterday, has for several weeks received applications for world's series seats in the Forest City. That's certainly looking it from a hopeful point.

But probably a bit of that optimism has departed. Maybe the Indians figured on something "soft" in the Browns line. They evidently expected to gain ground on the Yankees here. Instead, the Browns proved the usual Tartar. They handed the men of Speaker two on the chin in the three tilts.

And now, all the Indians have to do to overcome the Yankees is to overcome a lead of seven full contests with but 19 to play, to make good the optimistic views of the owners. Gaining seven games, or 35 percentage points at this stage of the game is like conceding Paddock 52 yards in a century dash.

Gloom for Cleveland.

Take a look at the figures for proof. For instance, should the Yankees play 10-9, 528 baseball in the remaining tilts, all the Indians would have to do to tie would be to win 17, while dropping two, a percentage of .895.

From which it can be seen that the Cleveland officials are far more optimistic than Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals. Breadon's club is two games in front, but Sam has not started taking the world's series applications. Yet the Indians, seven games behind, are doing it.

But as a Cleveland club official said: "It's not a great deal of trouble to us and it does away with a lot of ticket scalping."

Uhle's Streak Ended. But to get back to the Browns. They still are the wreckers of hopes and breakers of records. First of all, that 8-2 victory yesterday put a severe crimp in the pennant aspirations of the Indians. Secondly, George Uhle, with eight successive triumphs, was the pitcher pelted to all corners of the Browns' Park groundswell.

Against Uhle and his winning sequence of eight, George Sisler picked Chester Falk, a southpaw. It looked like "easy pickins" for the Yanks. But as has often been the case, baseball is a peculiar game and anything can happen.

It did in the final with the Indians. Falk was in there at the finish and Uhle had departed, having suffered his ninth reverse of the year, against 23 victories. While the Browns were east recently Mr. Falk was sent home because of a sore arm. When he faced the Indians it was the first work he had done, except to bat fungos, since the club returned home.

He had a bad start. But he stuck to his knitting and though being fanned for 10 safeties and walking five batters, he came through with victory. Some brilliant yielding, especially from Gerber and McManus, helped him.

Uhle did not have Falk's luck. For instance, a pop out to Sisler's bat fell too far in for the outfielders and too far out for the infielders for a double, a single off Schang's bat hit an unsuspecting glove in left field and a Gerber swat jumped over Lutzke's head for a clean rap. All this figured in the scoring.

No Games Here Until Saturday. There will be no baseball here for three days. The Browns departed last night for Chicago, where tomorrow they open their final road series of three games. The ferocious Boston Red Sox, who already have clinched the upside-down championship, are here, starting Saturday. Which means a great time will be had by all.

FESENDEN RETURNS TO ILLINOIS U. ATHLETICS. Special to the Post-Dispatch. URBANA, Ill., Sept. 8.—Coach John A. Fessenden, who has been in the University of Illinois track team will be strengthened greatly by the return of Doug Fessenden, who has been absent for several years, will be next week, and will likely take his old berth as a quarter-mile on the Illinois squad.

Fessenden, who has been instructing and coaching in Texas since his withdrawal from school, holds the Illinois indoor record in the quarter-mile. As Phil Schock, star quarter-mile runner, graduated in June, the return of Fessenden has lifted Illinois' hopes considerably.

HOT OFF THE BAT!

BY John E. Wray

Toledo Dempsey broke the sequence, entering the ring favorite because the loutish title-holder had shown nothing in his work-outs and nothing in his fights except his victory over Jack Johnson, then overweight and old.

In the early days of hero worship, fans were misguided and misled; champions did not conduct themselves as they now do, decently and decorously.

Whether Dempsey is a public favorite on his championship reputation remains to be seen. Champions and favorites have a habit of falling. But with Dempsey, one is reluctant to guess when his physical hour will strike.

He's different.

Looks Like Another Shelby.

If descriptions of Gene Tunney's preparation for his fight with Dempsey are truthful, one going to the idea that Tunney is going to pull "a Shelby" on the public.

That is to say, he will try to emulate Tom Gibbons and so in with the sole idea of lasting 10 rounds or of gaining a mere decision.

Everything about his work indicates this. The preponderance of road work is to develop wind and stamina, to permit constant footwork.

The sparring is to develop his boxing with a view to point-scoring.

The failure to slug with his partners or even to punch the heavy box may indicate that he is not going to let loose all he has for fear of leaving his guard open to the lightning counters of Dempsey.

There is every reason why Tunney should adopt this policy for 10 rounds. In the first place he is not equipped to trade punches with the champion. Again, even though outpointed, should he last 10 rounds he would not be disgraced, but would be in line for another fight.

Ten rounds are not long and other foes have proved that Dempsey is no tawdry able to get in that killing punch early. If Tunney fights in this wise it will NOT be an interesting or thrilling contest. The Dempsey-Gibbons fight was a drab affair; and had not Gibbons had the sympathies of the mob for other reasons he would have been hissed from the ring.

Cardinals Rest Before Invading the East

games by winning and so Aldridge volunteered to pitch.

Layoff Hurt Aldridge. "I couldn't do any good at home, I thought you might need me here," he told Manager McKechnie.

The Pirates did need him. They had planned to send Carmen Hill, a right-hander from Indianapolis, into this crucial game, and Aldridge's offer was accepted quickly.

But the long layoff had done Aldridge no good. His heart was strong and his arm had its speed. But he had no control. His curves would not break over the plate. He had too many worries on his mind. And the Cardinals beat him. He pitched shut-out, hitless ball for three innings and then Bottomley singled and Hafey tripled and O'Farrell hit a sacrifice fly. Then in the fifth inning Grantham made an error, missing a double play and putting Cardinals on second and third and Hornsby hit an old-fashioned Hornsby single, scoring the two men.

Four runs behind, and the Pirates folded up. They were beaten and they surrendered. McKechnie would not take Aldridge out of there. He had come from his father's sick bed to pitch this game. He would pitch as long as he wanted to pitch. And Aldridge stayed in there. But there was no hope. In the seventh, Douthitt singled and Hornsby doubled and Bell tripled and Hafey singled and the Cardinals were seven runs ahead. In the ninth singled by Douthitt and Bottomley and a walk to Hornsby and Bell's sacrifice fly netted the eighth St. Louis run.

Few Pirate Flurries.

There were a few Pirate flurries. In the fourth they made two singles off Sherdell and there was only one out. But the next two batters flied out and the runners died on first and second. In the eighth, Cuyler scratched a single to Sherdell, with one out, and after Grantham popped to Hornsby for the second out, Wright singled to left, putting Cuyler on third. This was the first visit the Pirates had of third as base runners, but that's all it meant, for Douthitt ranged back for Traynor's line drive and the flurry was over.

Disaster has made the Pirate team jumpy. Outfielders miss connections with extra base hits, rebounding from the fences, and

PENNANT ANGLES

Results of games played in the National League yesterday made it just a bit tougher for the Reds and Pirates in their efforts to overhaul the Cardinals, as shown by the following "ifs" concerning the remainder of the campaign:

To reach 89-65, .578, the three contenders will have to do the following:

Cardinals	8	8	.500
Cincinnati	12	8	.600
Pittsburgh	16	7	.696
To reach 90-64, .584:
Cardinals	9	7	.563
Cincinnati	13	7	.650
Pittsburgh	17	6	.739

If winner finishes with 91-63, .591, the teams will have to play at the following pace:

Cardinals	10	6	.625
Cincinnati	14	6	.700
Pittsburgh	18	5	.783

And if the winner winds up with 92-62, .597:

Cardinals	11	5	.688
Cincinnati	15	5	.750
Pittsburgh	19	4	.826

Showing that in each instance the Reds must win four more games to reach a given percentage, while the Pirates must cap eight more and lose one fewer than Hornsby's men. It looks like a real task.

other outfielders are sent in, and then they blunder and are replaced by still others or the offenders of the previous day. The team's nerves are shot.

The veterans think they will recover now, with the chance for a pennant virtually gone, and the Cardinals hope they will, at least sufficiently to hand the Reds a beating or two, and hasten the date on which the St. Louis team can clinch the pennant.

But the Cardinals are not asking for any help. They feel that they have the punch, the pitching and the brilliant defense. They do not expect to win all the remaining games. But they do expect to win the pennant, and they are prepared to win it on their own merit. They have met the most dangerous contenders in the last two weeks and they are in front. They intend to stay in front. Then bring on the Yankees.

Cardinal Rookie Won Swat Title

Catcher Rensa Batted .388 to Pace Eastern Shore League Stars.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BALTIMORE, Sept. 8.—Catcher George Rensa of Crisfield, who recently was sold to the St. Louis Cardinals, wound up the Eastern Shore League season Monday as the leading hitter of the circuit, official average of the circuit released today disclose.

Rensa, walked away with the batting laurels, his mark of .388 placing him 42 points in advance of the runner-up. Appearing at the plate 242 times in 72 games, the Crisfield receiver lashed out 94 hits and scored 47 runs. With the same team last season, Rensa batted .374.

The receiver will not report to the Cardinals immediately, there being a post-season series scheduled for next week, in which his team, the Shore League pennant winner, will engage the champion team of the neighbor, Blue Ridge League.

Smith, Brown and Eggman Advance In District Meet

Junior Champion in Good Form to Defeat Richard Rosebrough, 6-3, 6-4.

By Davison Obeart.

Joseph Smith, St. Louis district junior champion and No. 4 in the men's ranking for 1925, advanced to the third round of the annual district event at Triple A yesterday by defeating Richard Rosebrough, Kirkwood Country Club star. The match was decided in straight sets, Smith winning, 6-3, 6-4.

Rosebrough played good tennis, but was not able to cope with the junior champion's strong net playing. This is the first time in several seasons that Rosebrough has entered the district championship. He recently won both the Arkansas and Kansas State tennis titles and is a former St. Louis interscholastic champion.

Teddy Eggman, the Cornell University tennis captain, appeared in good form against Irwin Olan, the Michigan player. Olan has shown steady improvement during the past season and Eggman's victory in straight sets was somewhat of a surprise. The score was 6-3, 6-4.

The first round of the men's singles was completed when Wray Brown, No. 1 local ranking star, won from William Bell of O'Fallon Park, 6-1, 6-1. Brown will meet Thomas M. Corwin, in a second-round contest this afternoon.

Harvey Frohlichstein and Milton Stern gave Karl Hodge and Elmer Schwarz a great battle in their second round doubles match. Hodge and Schwarz were seeded No. 4 in the draw. Frohlichstein and Stern forced the first set to 7-5 and the second to 6-4 before losing the match.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS OPEN MEETING TODAY

Preliminary Business of Missouri Conference Is Transacted at Columbia.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 8.—Members of the Bishop's cabinet and of various boards and committees of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held a business session here yesterday preliminary to the formal opening today of the 118th annual meeting of the Missouri Conference of the church.

Bishop W. F. McMurry, president of Central and Howard Payne Colleges, Fayetteville, called the Bishop's Cabinet to order to discuss probable changes in pastoral care for the ensuing year. The cabinet is composed of the Bishop and the Presiding Elder from each of the six districts of the state. Headquarters for the districts are located at Chillicothe, Fayetteville, Hannibal, Mexico, Richmond and St. Joseph.

The various boards met to discuss the work done in their respective fields during the past year, and to transact pre-conference business, while the examining committees investigated undergraduate ministers who appeared for examination and advancement.

More than 300 delegates, representing 4,000 members of the church in the Missouri Conference, are expected to attend the meeting. The Missouri Conference embraces the territory north of the Missouri River.

Among the principal out-of-state speakers on the program are Dr. Gilbert T. Rowe, Dr. Stonewall Jackson and Dr. Emmett Hightower, all of Nashville; Rev. J. H. Jeannette of Talbott, Ga., and Mrs. Jeannette Mann, National W. C. T. U. lecturer, of Boston.

Arrested on Perjury Charge.
By the Associated Press.
TOMBS RIVER, N. J., Sept. 8.—George W. Holman, proprietor of the Open House, is under arrest on a charge of perjury brought by his son-in-law, James E. Sheehan of Evanston, Ill., former vice president and general counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad. The arrest grew out of lunacy proceedings, which Holman brought against Sheehan in July. Sheehan also has sued Holman for $100,000 damages. Holman was released on his own recognizance for a hearing Saturday.

Ice Cream From Crude Oil, Synthetic Rubber, Too

Prof. Morris, President of American Chemical Society, Predicts Also That Radium Will Be Used in Making Substitute for Gasoline.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—Ice cream made from crude oil is one of the marvels forecast by Prof. James F. Morris, president of the American Chemical Society, meeting here this week. Edible fats, the same as those in vegetable and animal foods and other fats equally nutritious but not found in nature, can be obtained by breaking up the molecules of mineral oil and rearranging the atoms to form new compounds.

This cracking process has been applied to petroleum for many years to obtain a larger yield of the gasoline distillate but investigations recently carried out by the petroleum institute have shown that it is possible to attach oxygen to the cracked molecules and so produce alcohols and acids of all sorts. Aromatic flower perfumes, fruit flavors, drugs and dyes in infinite variety may be made by such methods.

Synthetic Rubber.

This suggests that petroleum, which has hitherto been used for fuel and lubricating, may be found in the future to be even more valuable as a source of substances for which man has so far been dependent upon the chance bounty of nature. Glycerine, which is now obtained from the decomposition of soap fats, can be produced from petroleum and transformed into nitroglycerine. Synthetic plastics like rubber and bakelite also may be manufactured from the same raw material. One of the speakers remarked it was unfortunate that we should realize the possibilities of petroleum only now, when the Government Oil Commission announces that the known oil reserves of the United States will last only six years at the present rate of consumption.

Dr. Norris has his answer to that objection, for he foresees the utilization of the limitless stores of energy confined within the atom, as manifested in radium.

Putting Radium to Work.

"When I saw not long ago in the laboratory of Dr. S. C. Lind, a tiny drop of colorless oil that had been formed from methane, the chief constituent of natural gas as a result of the action of this form of energy upon it, I felt a new era in chemistry had dawned," Dr. Norris said. "That droplet meant a supply of combustible liquid to run our automobiles when petroleum is exhausted. We can make methane from carbon and hydrogen when the supply of natural gas fails us. The sun will always be able to convert carbon dioxide into a form from which we can get back carbon."

Dr. G. J. Esselen, speaking in half of cellulose, furnished that the synthesis of cellulose may some day be accomplished in the factory as it is now in the field from the free raw materials of air and water. Cellulose, which is the woody stuff of trees and other plants, now requires months or years to grow, but if the chemist once learns how to make it he may turn out a purer product in a few days or hours.

Artificially Made Glucose.

Already the first steps toward this achievement have been taken. It has been found possible to make glucose artificially by the action of ultra violet rays on water and carbon dioxide, that is, "soda water." It is easy to convert cellulose into glucose and if we only knew how to reverse this reaction synthetic cellulose would be possible, though whether it would be profitable or not remains to be seen.

Dr. Esselen pointed out that the artificial fibers of cellulose, such as rayon, are being strengthened by new processes and may eventually be made as strong as cotton or stronger. These synthetic fibers are made cheaply from wood pulp and since they have the luster of silk they have within a few years come to be used in twice the quantity of natural silk. But they have hitherto been unable to supplant either silk or cotton because the artificial fibers are weaker and more fragile, especially when wet.

If this difficulty can be overcome the synthetic fibers will be a stronger competitor of the natural. Wood pulp is now obtained from Southern hardwoods and no longer exclusively from Northern soft woods. Perhaps still faster growing trees or other plants may be the source of cellulose in the future. Dr. J. G. Lipman, in discussing the possibility of synthesizing

MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF KANSAS CITY IN POLITICAL ROW

Executive, a Republican, Refuses to Sign Ordinance Twice Passed by Democrats.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 8.—The poorest partisanship Kansas City ever has known in its municipal government has been practiced by the present city administration in its nearly five months' tenure of office under a charter designed to make municipal operations strictly nonpartisan. Mayor Beach said last night in asking the Council to reconsider the ordinance bestowing on the City Manager power to fill vacancies in the Council, the only authority by which he might be discharged or called to account in event the remaining members of the Council could not agree with him in 30 days.

The ordinance was repassed by the Democratic members of the Council. The Mayor again refused to sign the ordinance. Across the face of the document he wrote that his refusal was based on the fact the ordinance was illegal and improper. Mayor Beach is a Republican, while the Council has a Democratic majority.

cotton as the chief textile plant, pointed out that this would effect a revolution in American agriculture, for cotton is a $1,000,000,000 crop and the 49,000,000 acres now growing it would have to be devoted to other produce.

Dr. Charles H. Herty also prophesied that the rapid expansion of rayon would vitally affect farm and factory. An old and seemingly established industry, he said, has been revolutionized within the last few years by the rapid spread of the use of dissolved cellulose in lacquers for automobiles and the like.

Priestley Medal Awarded.

The Priestley medal for 1932 was presented last night to Dr. Edgar Faba Smith, former provost of the University of Pennsylvania and a former president of the society, in recognition of his work as an electro-chemist and his researches in the history of chemistry. The medal which is awarded by the society every three years for the most outstanding achievement in chemistry was established in honor of Joseph Priestley, the discoverer of oxygen.

Dr. Smith delivered an address on Priestley, who lived in Philadelphia and North Cumberland, Penn., after leaving England. At the conclusion of this lecture Prof. Walter T. Targatz of the University of Pennsylvania handed Dr. Smith a renewal of the diploma of doctor of philosophy which he had received from the University of Göttingen, Germany, in 1915.

SIDNEY S. MAY APPOINTED EFFICIENCY BOARD MEMBER

Supported Miller for Mayor in Last Campaign, Although He Is a Democrat.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SIDNEY S. May, a lumberman 5569 Maple avenue today was appointed to the Efficiency Board by Mayor Miller. He succeeds Fred A. Renick, a bond salesman, appointed by Mayor Kiel in 1927, and whose term expired Sept. 8. The office pays $2000 a year for once-a-week attendance at board meetings.

May is a Democrat and in the last Mayoralty campaign supported Miller instead of his party nominee, William L. Igoe. He was a member of the Election Board during the administration of Gov. Major and was appointed by Mayor to be City Collector at the time of the dispute and court suit to determine whether the collectorship was a state or city office. May served only three days. Collector Klein declining to surrender the office.

K. K. K. CANDIDATES DEFEATED IN EAST ST. LOUIS ELECTION

Two Democratic Judges and Democratic City Court Clerk Elected.

Kuklux Klan candidates were defeated yesterday in an East St. Louis election in which the two Democratic Judges and the Democratic City Court Clerk were elected. A. B. Garrett, one of the unsuccessful candidates for City Judge, received 2507 votes, and E. W. Egmann, who also had Klan support, received 2723. Judges Cook and Borders, the successful candidates, received 3015 and 3218, respectively. Their opponents were Republicans.

John T. Desmond, Clerk of the City Court and a particular object of the Klan campaign because of his Catholic affiliation, received

SALESMAN ARRESTED ON LAND MISREPRESENTATION CHARGE

Harry M. Sieber Released on Bond and Denies Connection With Real Estate Sale.

Chicago, a traveling salesman for the Sieber Products Manufacturing Co., 4009 Laclede avenue, of which his father, Charles Seiber, is president, yesterday afternoon was arrested on a Federal fugitive warrant charging him with obtaining $1000 from Tuley W. Nelson of Washington, D. C., by fraudulent representations concerning Florida real estate.

Sieber was released on $1500 bond, furnished by his mother, Mrs. Emma R. Sieber of 1 East St. Louis avenue, Webster Groves, who will have a hearing Sept. 24 before United States Commissioner James E. McLaughlin. He said his arrest was "outrageous." He said he had no connection with the Florida land sale except to "tip off" Sieber, a friend, on a promising speculation, which he, Sieber, had "tripped off" by other friends.

"That was music— music sweeter than the music of the great artists—

*that simple melody played by my little daughter,
one she learned, in my absence, to greet me on my return home."*

It adds to home-life pleasures to have the children play some instrument. It pays them in their later life, through the larger social appeals to which they become responsive and often in fitting them for employment in which music is needed to succeed.

The Post-Dispatch advertising columns from day to day afford the latest reliable information as to instructors, conservatory announcements and offers of the leading dealers of musical instruments.

For economical buyers, the Post-Dispatch classified musical columns regularly present a larger number of musical offers for Post-Dispatch readers' selection than appear in all the other St. Louis newspapers combined!

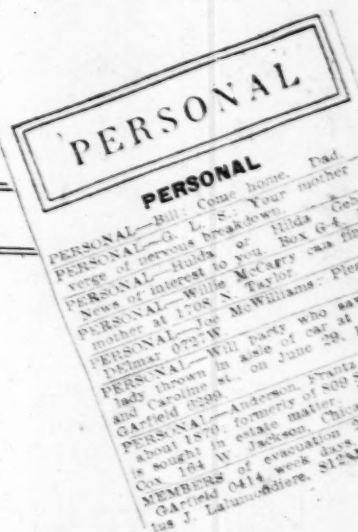

POST-DISPATCH

The ONE BIG Classified Medium of the BILLIONAREA
—the Greater St. Louis Market

- What is the story behind the personal advertisement?
- How tremendously important it is to reach that one person—the only one—who can restore one mother to health, another to happiness, who can close an estate or who can bring back the sunshine and make some home the haven it was.
- It is important to select the right medium to carry a message which means so much.
- The Post-Dispatch is the one medium in St. Louis that is relied upon by St. Louisans to make these important personal appeals.
- The Post-Dispatch has been that medium for many years—reaching far more readers in St. Louis than any other newspaper.

W. H. FETNER DIES IN HOSPITAL
Chief Mechanical Officer of Mo. Pac Succumbs After Operation.

The death of W. H. Fetner, 59 years old, of the Forest Park Hotel, chief mechanical officer of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, at the Jewish Hospital at 5:45 p. m. yesterday followed an illness of several months of kidney trouble.

He had been connected with the Missouri Pacific since July, 1923, coming here from Macon, Ga., to be assistant to President Baldwin. Recently he was promoted to be chief mechanical officer and his jurisdiction extended over the entire Missouri Pacific system. He leaves a widow and three children. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Gains 15 Pounds New Pleasant Way

"In one week I filled out those hollows in cheeks and shoulders which used to make me look half dead. In a month I gained 15 pounds. Now my clothes fit me instead of looking as if draped over a hatrack. I feel 100% better, too, and it's all because you put up Cod Liver Oil and Iron in a form I could take."—Elsa S. Harcom.

The First Box Is FREE to Skinny Men: Thin, Pale Women, Sickly Children

You can improve your appearance in the same manner as the woman shown in the picture above. You do not need to be thin and underweight and all bones and angles. You can have the good health, vitality and proper amount of flesh on your bones that always distinguishes the beautiful woman.

Everybody knows that iron for the blood and nerves, and Cod Liver Oil for flesh, muscle and energy, are two of the world's most famous tonics. Unfortunately most people cannot stand the taste of the oil—the iron alone is not enough—and thus they were prevented from using this quick way to build up health, nerve force and good solid flesh.

But chemists have now learned how to extract the energy-giving vitamins and flesh-building elements from Cod Liver Oil and throw the fishy-tasting useless oil away. These extracts are combined with iron and other health-building ingredients in pleasant, easy-to-take tablets called Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets.

A package of these wonderful weight-building and strength-building tablets is yours, FREE. Not a sample, but a full size package. This

Democrats Discuss Ways To Get Women to Polls

Miss Patricia Savage Thinks Party Suffers Most From Those Who Won't Tell Ages — "All Republicans Vote."

Rather than reveal their exact age, 50 per cent of eligible women voters in St. Louis refrain from going to the polls, according to Miss Patricia Savage, secretary of the women's division of the Democratic State Committee.

Democratic leaders believe their chances for victory next November would be enhanced if election judges would not require exact ages, but merely ascertain that the voter is over 21. They believe that most of the women who stay away from the polls because of age sensitiveness are Democrats. As one put it: "All Republicans vote in St. Louis."

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the Get-Out-the-Vote Committee of the League of Women Voters, at League headquarters, 3222 Olive street, to which representatives of political, civic and industrial organizations had been invited to co-ordinate activities for registration day, Sept. 23, Miss Savage proposed that the Board of Election Commissioners instruct precinct judges not to require exact ages.

Mrs. Virgil Loeb, educational director of the League, quoted Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League, as saying it was beneath the dignity of intelligent voters to quibble about ages. Mrs. Loeb said that precinct judges question citizens about their ages not for curiosity but for identification.

"The judges always insisted on my exact age," confided one woman. "When they asked me my age, I said, 'over 21,' but I couldn't kid them out of asking, 'How much over 21?'"

"Chairman Eigel of the Board of Election Commissioners says 'You can't teach an old dog new tricks,' another woman remarked. "The judges are used to asking men their exact ages and they can't refrain from asking the same of women."

A motion for the appointment of a committee to ask the Election Commissioners to instruct the judges as to the law on the subject was offered and defeated. Doubt was expressed as to whether the law requires voters to swear they are over 21, to give their approximate age or to tell the whole truth.

Efforts to increase registration will be made by the Get-Out-the-Vote Committee through newspaper, motion pictures and other agencies. The Police Department, which is sponsoring a police pension fund proposition at the election, and the Associated Industries, which is favoring a workmen's compensation measure, are among the organizations that have pledged co-operation.

Animal Breaks Loose From Crate at Union Station.

Lord, a champion German police dog, owned by Mrs. W. M. Duncker of 2912 Ellendale avenue, valued by her at $2000, escaped from a crate at Union Station yesterday, and when last seen was heading west on Clark street.

Several small boys tried to catch the dog, but failed.

Spicard Verdict in Bomber's Death
by the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—A Coroner's jury decided today that William Chowick, Wisconsin convict, committed suicide when he exploded a bomb in the Farmers' Deposit Savings bank, August 24, after his demand for $2000 was refused. A verdict of murder was returned in the case of George C.

Ortman, a bank policeman, who was also killed in the blast.

Max—old pal o' mine!
When life was glorious in a thousand ways.
When you and Babe Adams were the mayonnaise.
Very little money but lots of praise.
Max—old pal o' mine!

Will they find someone to take your place?
Max—old pal o' mine!
Will the Pirates fall or stay in the race?
Those St. Louis Cards are setting the pace;
Oh, for your bat, your speed and grace!
Max—old pal o' mine!

LOOKS THAT WAY.
It begins to look as though the Pirates will win nothing but the black flag with the skull and bones on it.

In the meantime the Browns are playing out their schedule at Sportsman's Park. Atta babie!

IF WINTER COMES.
Owing to temporary slump the Browns are not doing as well as usual but their owner didn't build that grandstand simply for Cardinal rooters to throw their straw from. They will return.

The exact date of their arrival has not been fixed but we think it will not be later than 1937.

FAIR ENOUGH.
A robber took $14 from a woman and then, returning $4 to her, said he had to do it because he was hungry. Whereupon he jumped into his automobile and, saying "home, James," to the chauffeur, faded away in the darkness.

The man in Paris who killed himself because his daughters bobbed their hair was foolish. He should have given them a wigging and let it go at that.

"Theater Musicians' Strike Ordered Canceled."
Tune up the fiddle and rosin the bow;
We shall have music wherever we go!

The parents of Franklin School children have voted to strike and not send their children to school. There's one strike. We take it, that will not be interfered with by strike breakers.

SILENCE BROKEN.
See where 1,209,739 words were sent from President Coolidge's vacation camp in 62 days. And they call him "Silent Cal!"

If Silent Cal should ever open up and start to talk there wouldn't be room on the front page for a first-class murder.

Monday being Labor day, the ball teams all worked overtime.
See where a St. Louis fan was caught napping on one of the girders of the stand in Cincinnati Sunday. But he woke up before he was run down.
